'Ginger' Hits Coast; Refugees Take Shelter

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Hurricane Ginger raked the North Carolina shoreline and headed inland Thursday, blanketing out some areas of a 70-mile swath, causing tidal flooding, overturning mobile homes, uprooting trees and smashing plate-glass windows.

Winds gusting up to 90 miles per hour hit the Morehead City-Beaufort area for hours as the storm stalled just offshore before moving in.

No injuries were reported. Many residents of coastal areas evacuated their homes as the storm approached. The Red Cross said about 5,500 took refuge in shelters it established in schools, churches and National Guard armories.

A regional manager of the Insurance Information Institute estimated the damage as the storm passed New Bern at $900,000.

At 6 p.m. the U.S. Weather Service said the storm was 35 miles northeast of New Bern or 70 miles inland. Highest sustained winds were estimated to be 65-75 m.p.h.

The Weather Service said the 70-mile-wide hurricane would probably continue its northwesterly drift at about 12 m.p.h. It added, however, "There will be only a slow decrease in wind speeds since much of the circulation of the hurricane will remain over water."

One of those in the Red Cross shelter at the National Guard armory at Morehead City was Cicero Jones, 72, of the island town of Salter Path. "I've lived here all my life," he said. "It looks about the worst we've had; certainly it's the longest one I can remember."

Police said about half the 1,500 residents of Atlantic Beach had left the town, which is on a resort island across Bogue Sound from Morehead City and adjacent Beaufort.

The wind flattened rides at an amusement center at Atlantic Beach.

As tides rose as high as six feet above normal, street flooding was reported in several towns, including New Bern, Morehead City, Beaufort, and the fishing town of Swansboro.

Eban Calls For Open Talks With Egypt

U.S.-Soviets Sign Nuclear Agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko signed two disarmament side agreements Thursday and promised anew that the big powers will strive for a major accord to curb their missile systems.

At a State Department signing ceremony, Rogers hailed the agreements on modernizing the Washington-Moscow hot line and guarding against accidental nuclear war as "this new imperative of the nuclear age."

But both he and Gromyko noted the agreements fall far short of the avowed goal of the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT)—to limit the nuclear arms race.

At the SALT negotiations resuming in Vienna in November, Rogers said: "We must intensify our efforts to reach agreements to limit the means as well as the risk of waging nuclear war. We shall strive toward this objective."

Rogers and Gromyko then went into a luncheon discussion at the Soviet embassy of other outstanding issues ranging from European security to the India-Pakistan difficulties.

Their meeting wound up a series of three high-level U.S.-Soviet parleys during Gromyko's visit to attend the U.N. General Assembly.

Both sides have been close-mouthed about what actually took place in the talks.

The hot line, originally set up in 1963 using transatlantic cable and European land lines, is to be updated by using communications satellites.

A high administration official said the U.S. cost would be about $5 to $6 million. Because it will take up to two years to build the needed earth stations in each country, the satellite hot line is not slated to go into operation before 1973.

The agreement on reducing the risk of accidental nuclear war provides that:

—Each will maintain and improve its safeguards against accidental or unauthorized use of its nuclear weapons.

—Each will notify the other at once if there is an accidental, unauthorized or other unexplained nuclear incident which could create a risk of war. In event of such an incident the party whose nuclear weapon is involved will seek to render it harmless immediately.

—Each will notify the other immediately if its missile warning system spots unidentified objects in circumstances that could risk a nuclear war outbreak.

BYPASS DISCUSSED IN DETAIL

Some 60 members of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce met for breakfast Thursday morning to hear in detail the complete story of the Warren bypass. Shown center is Karl Pierson, chairman of the bypass committee appointed by Bud Elmquist, chairman of the

Ray Of Hope Dirt Will Fly On Warren Bypass In Spring

By BOB CLEVER

Some optimism was expressed Thursday at a Chamber of Commerce breakfast that Phase I of Warren's bypass, delayed now for over two years, may get started next spring. This phase now redesigned by the Dept. of Transportation would extend the four-lane at Starbrick to the vicinity of the railroad bridge above Hickory st. Phase II from there to the Glade Bridge has been reauthorized to meet environmental objections. The chairman of the bypass committee, however, told some 60 chamber members present at the Early Bird breakfast at the Penn Laurel Motel that the Dept. of Interior still has not agreed to consider the bypass in separate phases which may delay the start of the first phase. Karl Pierson, in reviewing the history of the bypass, starting in the early 1960s, said that based on previous objections to river and recreation area encroachment, the Dept. of Transportation has completed the redesign of both phases including the bypass at Rogertown. Phase I plans are ready for field view.

Phase I would pass through the former airport property and a section of Pleasant Township where condemnation is about 95 per cent complete. An environmental impact statement for this phase has been submitted to the Bureau of Parks and Recreation, Dept. of Interior in Washington.

Phase II has been redesigned to meet objections made to some 9,000 feet of encroachment on the river, cutting that down to about 700 feet. Details of the new corridor, more closely in line with Dorcon rd., have not been made public. The required environmental impact statement has not been prepared.

Pierson said that the Dept. of Interior has refused to consider the bypass in separate phases, insisting that the environmental impact statement as required by the 1969 highway policy act first be completed for both phases. Pierson said that following recent telephone conversations and as recent as Wednesday, there is reason to believe that the department will change its stand on this issue.

Pierson said in endorsing the initial planning of the bypass that the chamber continues to back 100 per cent the route chosen by the county and borough planners. He said that much thought was given to this route particularly as regards traffic origination and as related to easing traffic on Pennsylvania ave. The planners then determined, and the chamber even more strongly now concurs, that without the bypass the ever-increasing volume of traffic on Pennsylvania ave. could destroy Warren Borough.

Pierson said that nearly $2 million has already been spent on the design of Phase I and condemnation for the right of way, and that about $100,000 has been spent on Phase II. He emphasized the necessity for starting Phase I immediately, on which so much money has already been spent, since it could be two years or more before anything might be done on Phase II.

"We set a target date of October 15 at a meeting of all interested parties just a year ago for getting Phase I approved. We will miss that target date, but the showdown will come before Nov. 15 when the Department of Transportation in Washington, D.C. replies to the environmental impact statement recently submitted," Pierson said.

"I am a little more optimistic about Phase I after talking to the Dept. of Transportation in Franklin yesterday. I still think there is a chance, however, that we will be turned down in our request to develop the bypass in two phases.

"There is no sense kidding ourselves. We have but one chance to take care of traffic on Pennsylvania ave. and this is it—this is our only hope to get a bypass built with state and

Cites Improved Political Climate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel called on Egypt Thursday for face-to-face negotiations at the United Nations to "break out of devious procedures and sterile polemics into a new vision and a new hope."

This was one of five roads to Middle East peace outlined by Eban in a major policy declaration before the 130-nation General Assembly. The Israeli desire for direct talks was not new, but Eban tied it to the improved East-West political climate and said: "The hour is ripe."

Eban appealed directly to Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad of Egypt, who is attending the opening weeks of the three-month assembly session.

He suggested that they meet at U.N. headquarters under the auspices of the United States to discuss a settlement of the Suez Canal issue or under the chairmanship of U.N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring to consider a general peace agreement.

Eban addressed the assembly shortly after Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Britain declared at a news conference that a "quicker dialogue at closer quarters" was urgently needed in the Middle East crisis "assisted no doubt by a third party."

Later in the day Douglas-Home flew to Washington for discussions with President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers on the Middle East problem.

Eban said "there is an element of farce and even of degradation in the idea that the world negotiation can honestly be applied" to the indirect communication followed by the Middle East countries.

Eban said the first road to peace "lies in a Suez Canal agreement." This, he added, would inspire agreement on other issues and "the peace effort will acquire momentum."

A second road would be through resumption of negotiations under Jarring's auspices, he declared, and others would be a settlement of the Arab refugee problem and agreements on principles of a Middle East peace.

The Israeli foreign minister flatly rejected any peace settlement guaranteed by the U.N. Security Council.

DER Has No Funds To Enforce Snowmobile Law

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Department of Environmental Resources says it has no funds to administer the new state snowmobile law.

"For that reason we've asked the legislature to postpone the program until next July 1," said Stanley Walton, staff forester in the department's state forest management division. A House bill to that effect was introduced Sept. 20.

Actually, the law—which requires a $5 registration for each snowmobile and provides a safety training program as well as specifying certain snowmobile operational requirements—became effective Sept. 12.

But there are no funds to implement the law, Walton said, adding that an estimated $200,000 is needed for the first year.

School Superintendent Subpoenaed By Teachers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Striking teachers in the North East School District in Erie County Thursday subpoenaed the district's superintendent, seeking information on substitute teachers he hired to open schools for the first time this term.

In seeking the subpoena, the teachers charged that Glen D. Muirhead had hired substitutes who were not certified to teach and requested information on their qualifications.

The teachers also said they had asked the Pennsylvania Education Department to investigate "the quality of the educational program" being offered by the substitute teachers.

The North East strike, now in its fifth week, is the longest in the state. Some 87 teachers are out, and 1,500 pupils are affected.

Muirhead said he had hired teachers from out of state and said he would provide the information requested in the subpoenas.

Meanwhile, teachers in the Oil City district in Venango County returned to their schools Thursday, the first time since school let out last spring.

The teachers ratified a new contract late Wednesday, ending a four-week strike that had idled 4,554 students.

Teachers in the Hazleton School District in Luzerne County Wednesday night rejected three contract offers and continued their strike.

Teachers in the Burgettstown district in Washington County also continued their walkout Thursday.

Pope, Priests Clash As World Synod Opens

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Third World Synod of Bishops opened Thursday with a clash between Pope Paul VI and a well-organized lobby of priests and laymen seeking radical change in the Roman Catholic Church.

Speaking at a Mass in the Sistine Chapel, the Pope warned the 209 synod delegates to beware of the "danger" of outside pressures. He told them to make up their own minds on the synod topics, "The Priesthood" and "Social Justice."

Operation Synod, a lobby that claims representation in 60 countries, quickly charged that the papal address was marked "by a tone of admonition and of fear" and consisted "largely of empty rhetoric."

It urged the bishops "not to let themselves be put under pressure by anyone, not even by the Pope."

The pontiff inaugurated the third synod of his eight-year reign by concelebrating a Latin-language Mass with, among others, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, the primate of Hungary. The prelate came to Rome Tuesday after 15 years of asylum in the U.S. Embassy in Budapest.

Synod delegates cheered the 79-year-old cardinal.

In his talk, Pope Paul gave no guidelines for debate on either topic. But he sharply underscored his warning about pressure.

"Its guises," he said, "are many and its power is penetrating and dangerous."

He seemed to argue for the kind of gradual evolution of the decrees of the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council he has fostered as Pope. But he warned against tampering with basic Church doctrines.

Operation Synod, a worldwide amalgamation of liberal priests and lay groups, was born at Louvain University in Belgium early this year.

Its published material calls for a "pluralistic" ministry in which there would be many kinds of priests: celibate and married, fulltime and parttime, male and female.

The lobby wants a breakdown of the sharp distinction between clergy and laity, so that priests would perform more so-called lay activities and laymen would engage in forms of ministry.

On the social justice topic, Operation Synod wants the Catholic Church to permit its members to engage in "active nonviolent" resistance and, in some cases, in violent resistance to civil powers if such actions are deemed necessary for social progress.

WGH Holds Annual Meeting

By BOB CLEVER

A model of the proposed $7 million addition to Warren General Hospital was unveiled Thursday at the annual meeting of the association held there in the board room.

Six directors were elected, one newly-admitted as a member and elected for the first time. Michael Mead, local publisher, was elected for a three year term. Re-elected for a three year term were Harold T. Bright, Mrs. Charles H. Frantz, Gerald A. Huber, John H. Kirk and Mrs. Harry A. Logan Jr.

There was no detailed discussion of the proposed additions during the meeting, since, as explained by Robert M. Kinney, administrator, details of the development of construction plans, financing of the program and the construction schedule had been described in detail in the annual

U.S. Takes Hard Line Against Devaluing $$$

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States took a hard line Thursday against devaluing the dollar and called on other governments for progress in dismantling trade barriers as a condition for removal of the 10 per cent U.S. tariff surcharge.

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally delivered to the 118 nations of the International Monetary Fund an address that was conciliatory in tone but basically unyielding on the U.S. terms for ending the monetary stalemate.

But he offered a new suggestion: That there be a transitional period of freely floating currencies, during which day-to-day dealings on world money markets would determine approximate levels at which realistic exchange rates could be pegged.

Without naming any governments, Connally aimed shafts at Japan and some other countries which have "floated" their currencies but still have intervened in financial markets to prevent them from rising freely in relation to the dollar.

"As a result, some adjustments clearly needed are being delayed or thwarted, the process of multilateral decision-making impeded, and political questions multiplied," the American spokesman said.

Reactions to his address, which delegates to the weeklong annual meeting of the IMF and World Bank had awaited anxiously as a definitive statement of the U.S. position, was remarkably varied. Some found it tough, some conciliatory, some optimistic, some gloomy.

Finance ministers and central bankers from every country were studying one of Connally's sentences for clues on how long the U.S. will maintain the import surcharge.

This was the sentence: "If other governments will make tangible progress toward dismantling specific barriers to trade over coming weeks and will be prepared to allow market realities freely to determine exchange rates for their currencies for a transitional period, we, for our part, would be prepared to remove the surcharge."

There was no elaboration, even on an off-record basis, from American officials on what would constitute "tangible progress," how long the transitional floating period would last, or how its results could be translated into a new exchange rate structure.

Motion For Mistrial Denied

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A federal judge Thursday denied a second motion for a mistrial in the case of four Teamsters Local 341 officials charged with bribery and extortion.

U.S. District Judge Rabe F. Marsh ruled that a disputed question asked one of the defendants, local president Henry F. Trotto, was not unduly prejudicial.

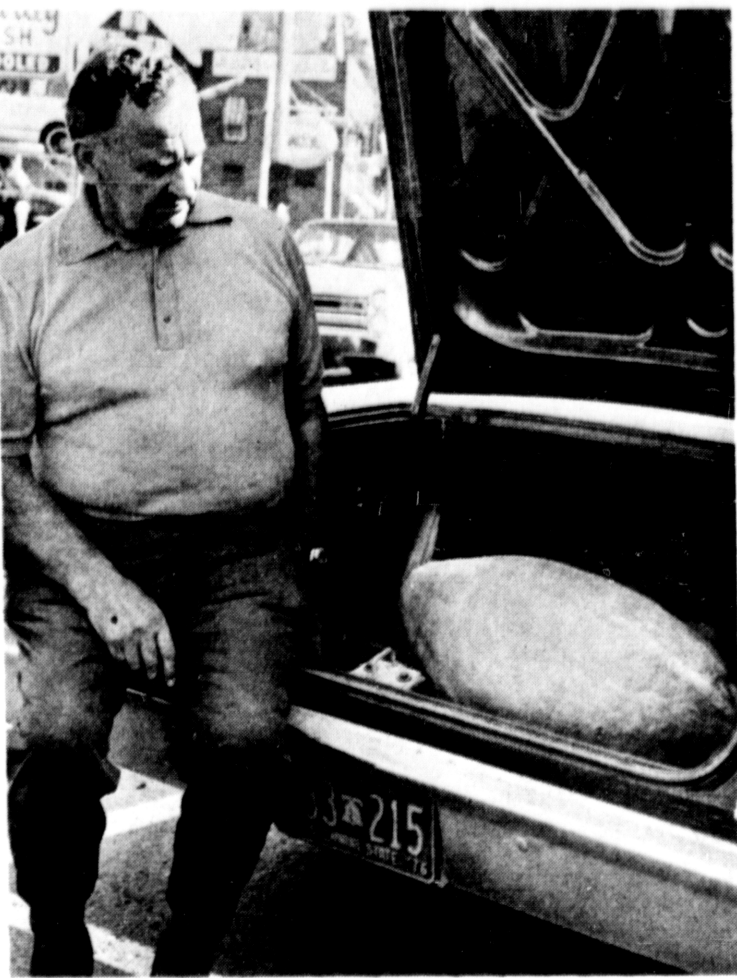

Defense Attorney Stanley Greenfield had requested the mistrial after the prosecutor asked Trotto if he had been absent without leave from the Army in the 1940s. Greenfield claimed the question would unduly prejudice the jury.

After the judge denied the motion, Greenfield brought out in testimony that Trotto had earned six medals in the service and was honorably discharged.

Trotto and three other defendants—Charles F. Heineman, 40, secretary-treasurer; Charles Oleniacz, 40, a job steward, and Paul Micelli Jr., 30, also a job steward—were charged with interrupting interstate shipments into two construction sites by forcing contractors to pay union members for accompanying trucks into the job sites, a move the government claims was unnecessary.

Trotto, testifying in his own defense, contended that he and the other defendants were acting in good faith by stopping nonunion trucks from entering the sites.

The trial was expected to continue Friday with Heineman on the stand.

Coal Mine, Dock And Rail Strikes Threaten Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coal mine, dock and railroad strikes were all possible at midnight Thursday, but only the coal walkout seemed a serious threat.

An 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction was likely if 45,000 dockers at East and Gulf ports join the West Coast longshoremen who have been on strike since July 1.

The government's 4½-month ban against a strike by railroad signalmen also was to expire at midnight, but there seemed no chance of an immediate renewal of the walkout that idled 500,000 railroaders across the nation last May.

The first of 80,000 soft coal miners began walking off the job in several states as talks between the owners and the United Mine Workers Union continued in Washington.

The union sought wage increases to $50 a day from $37, and a doubling of the 40-cent-a-ton royalty for the union's welfare and retirement fund.

Sources said there was little chance of final agreement Thursday. Negotiators were far from an interim settlement, but the possibility of a contract extension was not ruled out.

In New York, the shippers proposed a revised plan to continue an annual income guarantee for the 18,000 dockers in the Port of New York. The shippers want to drop the income guarantee as too costly.

The shippers' plan would involve allowing the dockers to become direct employees of carrier and stevedoring firms rather than casual laborers.

High federal officials joined the last-minute talks with the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

The West Coast strike by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union has idled 15,000 men and more than 150 ships in 24 ports.

Among union demands is a $500 monthly pension for men retiring at 62 with 25 years' service, and a 37.4 per cent pay hike to $5.88 an hour.

BRITISH OFFICIALS SAY

'Playboy' Defector Blue Whistle On Russian Spies

LONDON (AP) — A Russian sent here as a trade official and who was subsequently picked up on a drunk driving charge was identified Thursday as the KGB defector who sparked the expulsion from Britain of 105 other Russians as spies.

The Foreign Office named him as Oleg Lyalin, 34, and his colleagues in the Soviet trade delegation described him as a slim 5 feet 9, with brown wavy hair.

As if to brand him as a man of no account, Soviet colleagues added he is a charmer with women who likes his vodka and tonic—all in all something of a playboy. For good measure, some suggested he probably was involved with some British woman.

First Soviet Embassy officials, then the British Foreign Office, pointed to Lyalin, as the man who skipped—taking with him, the British say, a stack of secret papers detailing the workings of Moscow's spy setup here.

The Soviet purpose in identifying the defector, security experts explained, would have been to warn all his contacts in Britain and abroad to take cover.

The disclosure came on a day Lyalin was to appear for a London court hearing on the drunk driving charge that followed his arrest in downtown London Aug. 30. Judge John Hooper showed no surprise when a jailer in his court near Piccadilly Circus reported Lyalin's absence.

The KGB officer—described by Britain's mass-circulation newspapers as a superspy with an eye for the girls—still is in the hands of British authorities at some secret hideout.

Lyalin had been arrested by two patrolmen in the early hours driving erratically. He gave no trouble to the policemen, who at the time, had no idea who he was. At a court appearance the next day he was released on bond of 50 pounds—$120.

If Lyalin had appeared in court Thursday he conceivably could have been in some danger. Certainly his picture would have covered many front pages. This would have cost Western intelligence agencies time in following any leads he may have provided about his "controls" in other countries.

Lyalin's real value can only be assessed finally by insiders.

As a 34-year-old, he could not have been high in the KGB hierarchy. Also top KGB men don't get themselves arrested for drunk driving.

If he was a key figure, some British security experts believe the Russians would have taken good care to hustle him out of the country on the first available plane after his arrest.

The significance of Lyalin's defection appeared to be primarily political. The Foreign Office has acknowledged that the news of his defection was a factor in the timing of their expulsion operation.

Senate Renews Call For Troop Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate renewed Thursday its call for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, setting a six-month deadline after Democratic leader Mike Mansfield appealed for action to "bring this horrible war to an end."

"Why not try?" Mansfield appealed. "What have we got to lose? You've got a lot to gain."

The vote was 57 to 38 in favor of Mansfield's amendment to set a six-month deadline—which would not be binding on President Nixon—contingent on release of American prisoners.

"You can't stop the war by an act of Congress of this kind," Republican leader Hugh Scott said, expressing the Nixon administration's contention the Mansfield amendment is a waste of time—and potentially harmful.

Scott's plea was echoed by Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee.

"Every time we pass this amendment in this way we put obstacles in our path, and lend encouragement to the enemy," Stennis said.

Noting that Mansfield's amendment to the $21 billion military procurement authorization bill, like one with a nine-month deadline passed last June, faces House opposition and a possible conference stalemate, Stennis said it would be better to pass it as separate legislation.

Thursday's vote was closer than the 61-38 margin last June when nine-month withdrawal amendment was attached to the draft extension bill.

The touchy issue of the American prisoners swirled through the debate. When Scott said the amendment would give up a valuable U.S. bargaining card, Mansfield shot back: "What is that card—the POWs?"

Dole, Mansfield and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., argued over whether the amendment sought to place blame for the war.

"I'm not shifting the blame to anyone," Fulbright insisted. "All I want to do is stop the war."

But Dole said, "what we do effectively undercuts the President."

Tidioute Auction

The Tidioute Volunteer fire dept. will hold its annual auction in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State fishing tournament to be held there Oct. 9 and 10.

The firemen will hold the sale at their new headquarters (Norton Bldg.) at 228 Main st. on Oct. 9, beginning at 10 a.m.

They presently are asking for items for the sale. Arrangements can be made for pick-up by contacting any member of the fire department or Paul L. Thomas, fire chief.

Woman's Kidnapers Ask $1 Million Ransom

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The consul general of the Dominican Republic, a 56-year-old woman, has been abducted and her kidnapers have asked a ransom of $1 million, the Dominican Embassy reported Thursday.

It was the second Latin-American kidnapping with political overtones this week. Julio Hirschfeld Almada, 52, Mexico's federal aviation director, was freed by his kidnapers in Mexico on Wednesday after his family paid a quarter-million dollar ransom. He was seized Monday.

The nephew of the kidnapped Dominican consul told newsmen here Thursday that her kidnapers had identified themselves as a leftist terrorist group recently dormant in Venezuela.

The consul, Thelma Frias de Rodriguez, was seized Wednesday while en route to a bank. The nephew, Vice Consul Fausto Frias, said ransom notes demanding $1 million had been received, one shortly after the abduction and another Thursday.

He said the notes were signed by a group called the Combat Unit of Ruads Mezones, an arm of the Armed Forces of National Liberation—known as FALN in its heyday of terrorism in the early 1960s.

FALN guerrillas hijacked the Venezuelan freighter Anzoategui in February 1963, and ordered her sailed to Brazil where the hijackers were given asylum. The vessel was returned to Venezuela. Joao Goulart, a leftist, then was president of Brazil.

In August of 1963, the FALN kidnaped an Italian soccer star, Alfredo de Estefano, and in the following November abducted Col. James K. Chennault of the U.S. military mission in Caracas. Both later were freed.

These kidnappings were carried out chiefly to draw attention to the FALN's political aims installing a leftist regime. Vice Consul Frias said the abductors of his aunt gave no instructions as to how ransom should be paid.

Reinforcements Airlifted To Surrounded Allied Bases

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese command flew reinforcements Thursday to the aid of two surrounded artillery bases along the Cambodian border, but senior U.S. officers said the North Vietnamese offensive has slowed, at least temporarily.

About 2,000 government troops were ferried by American and South Vietnamese helicopters to both sides of the frontier in efforts to relieve units at Fire Base Alpha in eastern Cambodia and Fire Base Tran Hung Dao on the Vietnamese side of the border.

At last report by nightfall, the defenders still held the bases and the airlifted relief forces were moving toward them.

Officers at Tay Ninh, forward headquarters 55 miles northwest of Saigon, said enemy rocket and mortar attacks dropped off drastically Thursday from the heavy shelling of the four previous days.

The North Vietnamese have concentrated on rocket and mortar assaults on south Vietnamese and U.S. artillery support bases on both sides of the border.

Their ground movements have been devoted mostly to cutting the 30-mile stretch of Highway 22 running northward from Tay Ninh to Krok, seven miles inside Cambodia.

Lt Gen. Nguyen Xuan Thinh, the South Vietnamese field commander, said it was known that portions of two of the three enemy divisions in Cambodia, the 5th and 7th, were involved. He added that they had been heavily reinforced by anti-aircraft guns and artillery.

"They say they must push our troops back into South Vietnam. If they are successful, they will infiltrate into South Vietnam," Thinh told Associated Press correspondent George Esper at Tay Ninh.

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty report showed 29 Americans died in action in Vietnam last week, 16 more than in the previous week.

It was the first time in 11 weeks that the combat death toll exceeded 20. The increase was attributed partly to changes in casualty listings, spokesmen said.

The command also reported 47 Americans wounded in action last week, compared with 64 reported wounded in the previous week.

The South Vietnamese command said 263 government troops were killed and 615 were wounded last week, compared to 397 reported killed and 755 wounded of a week earlier.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands jointly claimed 1,331 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers killed last week, compared with 1,572 reported killed two weeks ago.

On the political front, President Nguyen Van Thieu, making the third and last television speech of his campaign, Thursday night assailed his critics and urged the people to "vote in great numbers."

Vo-Tech Night School

Classes Start Oct. 18

Classes will begin Oct. 18, for adult evening school at the Warren County Area Vocational-Technical School, according to Samuel Marek, director.

Registration will be held Oct. 4, 5 and 6 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. and during the same times on Oct. 11, 12 and 13.

Instructional costs have been set at $35 for the 144 hours of classes to meet twice weekly from 7 to 10 p.m.

There will be an additional charge of $15 for the course in welding.

Instruction will be offered in the following areas: automotive mechanics, carpentry, clerk-typist 1, data processing, drafting, basic electronics, offset printing, secretary 1, small engine repair, welding, machine shop, and metal fabrication.

Fees will be required the night of registration.

Marek said whether the courses meet Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday will depend on the enrollment. A minimum of 15 students will be needed to form a class, with the maximum number set at 20.

Death Rate Here Below State Level

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG—The death rate in Warren County during the first quarter of the year was below that for the state as a whole, a detailed county-by-county survey by the state department of health indicated today.

The survey showed a mortality rate of 9.3 per 1,000 population for the county as against the statewide rate of 10.9 deaths per 1,000 population—and a county rate of 8.9 per 1,000 population a year earlier.

Deaths within the county during the first quarter numbered 111, the same as the 111 during the corresponding period of 1970.

Disease of the heart proved to be the leading cause of death within the county with 57 fatalities attributed to this cause (47 in 1970).

Second leading cause of death within the county during the quarter was cancer, resulting in the death of 14 countians (down from 23 a year earlier.) while cerebro-vascular diseases affecting the nervous system (apoplexy, cerebral hemorrhage, stroke, etc.) followed in third place in the county with 18 deaths from this cause (11 a year earlier).

Other causes of death within the county during the period (with figures for last year noted in parenthesis) include the following:

Diabetes—three (three); arteriosclerosis—four (none); pneumonia and influenza—four (seven); motor vehicle accidents— one (three); other types of accidents—four (four); and miscellaneous or "all other causes"—12 (12).

Deadly Tranquillity

Is Golden Age only golden for the drug industry? This is the question Nelson Cruikshank, president of the National Council of Senior Citizens, has asked Congress to investigate. He charges that the "dangerous use of tranquilizer drugs on elderly nursing home patients simply to pacify them" is too prevalent.

"Exclusive use of tranquilizers can quickly reduce an ambulatory patient to a zombie," Cruikshank continues, "confining the patient to a chair or bed, causing the patient's muscles to atrophy from inaction and causing general health to deteriorate quickly."

"Conscientious doctors may use tranquilizer drugs in a carefully administered program," he states, "to help genuinely disturbed patients. However, it appears that many doctors, who are less than conscientious, give blanket instructions to nursing home staffs for use of tranquilizer drugs on patients who do not need them."

As a followup to the Cruikshank statements, Senator Frank Moss of Utah, chairman of the subcommittee of Long-Term Care, of the Committee on Aging, asked the staff of Medicare to furnish him with statistics on the cost of tranquilizing drugs in nursing homes.

He learned that it is commonly accepted that tranquilizing drugs represent the largest single category of nursing home drugs, and that sales to these institutions represented a $40 million a year market, with sedatives and hypnotics close behind at $27 million annually.

In commenting, Senator Moss said, "Most common of these drugs are Ithorazine (chlorpromazine) and Mellaril, (thioridazine) both of which are antipsychotic compounds. According to ethical practice, they are prescribed for the acutely psychotic or the elderly schizophrenic patient. Both exhibit recognized forms of mental illness.

Additional use is perhaps indicated "for patients in acute stages of agitation from senile psychosis or delirium when attempts to control them with minor tranquilizers have failed."

That the Senator, through his subcommittee, intends to move quickly to prove or disprove the Cruikshank charges is indeed commendable. For while there is little question that tranquilizers of the strength mentioned can be a genuine blessing to those patients who need them, they should not, from an ethical standpoint, be used to subject others to a form of zombieism during the last fleeting moments of their life.

When the Senator says, "We cannot and will not tolerate the sedation of patients as a means of controlling them," he's speaking for a large segment of the American public.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—A Colorado doctor has uncovered alarming, but strictly preliminary, evidence that aerosol sprays may cause cancer.

We reported on August 3 that hair sprays, deodorant sprays and other aerosol cosmetics "contain chemicals which may sear the eyes, damage the lungs and weaken the heart."

Now Dr. William O. Good of Montrose, Colo., has rushed us his own urgent findings. Seventy-five of his patients, who had been exposed to aerosol sprays, were given sputum pap tests by the nationally known pathologist, Dr. Geno Saccomann. The tests revealed "pre-malignant cells," which could develop into cancer.

Dr. Good sent us the actual pathology reports on 48 patients whose names, of course, had been blotted out. In each case, "atypical or dysplastic cells"—that is, pre-malignant, cancer-causing cells—were found. They ranged from "mild" to "marked."

"No one can say how many of these patients will develop full blown lung cancers," said Dr. Good. But the ominous indications spurred him into sending us the results rather than waiting to publish them.

He found the pre-malignant cells, incidentally, in patients of all ages, some as young as 17.

The propellant in most sprays is a form of Freon, a DuPont product long used as a refrigerant. Freon has damaged the hearts of test animals and has been linked to the deaths of youngsters who inhaled it for a "high."

DANGER TO LUNGS

Dr. Good believes Freon or other ingredients, at least indirectly, may also cause non-cancerous lung infection. The chemicals damage or destroy the tiny hairs that act as "sweepers." They no longer can keep out dust particles, he said, thus leaving the lungs vulnerable to infection.

Dr. Good has just reported his findings to the American Medical Association, which notified both the Food and Drug Administration and the aerosol industry. The industry immediately dispatched a physician to confer with Good.

At FDA, we reached Dr. John Gowdy, an expert on aerosols, who is winding up a limited study of the effect of hair sprays on 200 beauticians. He found they have slightly more lung diseases than normal.

Cancer was discovered in two of the beauticians. But he said these were the first two cancer cases found among 2,000 beauticians tested in Germany, England and in other U.S. studies.

He added cautiously that the higher incidence of lung diseases among beauticians can't be linked definitely to hair sprays. But he acknowledged the question "needs to be looked into."

The cosmetics industry, upon learning of our investigation of aerosols, sent us medical information supporting their view that aerosols do not damage lungs.

A 1959 FDA test and studies in 1963 and 1965 by Dr. Robert Giovacchini produced no evidence that aerosol sprays affect the lungs. Dr. Giovacchini's studies are summarized in the AMA's Journal which notes without comment that he was working for Toni, a cosmetics firm, at the time.

Footnote: Guinea pig tests by Lt. Col. George Ward, a physician-researcher at Fitzsimmons General Hospital, turned up lung lesions caused by spray deodorants. And at the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences in North Carolina, a study has just been started of aerosol deodorants, using rats and a rabbit.

REPLY TO COUSINS

Norman Cousins, esteemed editor of the Saturday Review, is hot under the collar about our report that his magazine suppressed a critical column on the Kennedy Center for the arts.

Cousins said the column was not suppressed but was merely rejected for legitimate editorial reasons. Our refusal to see it this way, he suggested in a huffy editorial, was "a breach of professional ethics."

Cousins insists his version of the episode was the gospel and we ignored it. This is false. His side of the story was rushed into print the moment we got it from him.

But the gospel according to Cousins doesn't change the situation a bit. Here are the actual facts:

The suppressed column on the Kennedy Center was written by the Washington Post's noted architecture critic, Wolf von Eckardt. It was part of a regular series of columns von Eckardt had been doing for the Saturday Review.

Such columns are different from normal magazine articles because they are supposed to appear regularly, to be a forum for an individual writer to say virtually what he pleases.

But when von Eckardt's column arrived, Review editors, including music critic Irving Kolodin, got together and decided not to publish it.

Instead, the Review published a cover story on the center by Kolodin which was an all-out defense of the controversial center.

Now none of this would be so bad if it were not for one thing. The Saturday Review, during all of this, was doing business with the Kennedy Center. It had landed a contract to publish the center's slick program-magazines.

What's more, Irving Kolodin, the very man who helped decide to quash von Eckardt's column and who also wrote the favorable piece, had been designated as editor of the center's program magazines. This is a conflict of interest if there ever was one.

Cousins says that von Eckardt's piece was killed because it strayed from the subject of architecture.

But von Eckardt, who knows more about architecture than Cousins and has no conflicts of interest in this situation, scoffs good naturedly at this idea. And he is no longer writing for the Saturday Review.

We think there was a "breach of professional ethics" in this situation. But it was Norman Cousins and his staff who were caught in it, not us.

"Why couldn't it have been Fulbright...or Proxmire... or McGovern...or...!"

Muskie Has Moxie

By Tom Wicker

WASHINGTON—Sen. Ed Muskie is generally rated the front-runner for the Democratic Presidential nomination, but after this ritual concession the criticism usually begins. He does not have enough appeal to the left or to the right (depending on the critic); his campaign is too bland, the Senator himself is too much a "centrist."

Maybe so, but a pair of recent events tend to unsettle the notion of a wishy-washy Muskie trying to win the nomination by saying nothing. The first of these was the candidate's remarkable statement to a group of blacks in Los Angeles that he believed he would be defeated in 1972 if he chose a black for a Vice Presidential running-mate.

This might prove to be the biggest political blunder since George Romney's brainwashing, although there are said to be those who regard it as the shrewdest political move since John Kennedy's telegram to Mrs. Martin Luther King in 1960.

Events may well vindicate one of those judgments, but for the moment the overtly political consequences of this statement are less interesting than the fact that a Presidential candidate made it. Even the objective truth of Muskie's remark is a little aside from the point: there is no doubt that he believed it to be true. So, in fact, does virtually every other practicing politician in America today.

So the first thing is that Muskie gets a high mark for candor, which is always good, but particularly so at a time when two successive Presidents have been so widely suspected of dissembling that President Nixon has even called public attention to his difficulty in convincing people that he is telling the truth.

In fact, the President's pious complaint that Muskie had "libeled" the American people simply underlined the point. A man whose political strategy is to win the white South and the white suburbs by cutting into the George Wallace vote is standing knee-deep in the credibility gap when he defends the political effectiveness of a black on a national ticket.

Muskie's statement represented more than candor, however. It was an obvious effort to face hard facts, not to take refuge in comforting sophistry. In a society choked with scapegoats, straw men, scare theories and euphemism, a simple willingness to face up to conditions is notable in itself -- a fact which speaks volumes about the political climate of the Nixon-Agnew years.

Moreover, a politician who has been around as long as Muskie could not have been under much illusion about the political risks of making such a statement. If making it turns out to be an asset in the long run -- which is by no means clear -- it still will be true that it was a gamble to have done so.

These aspects of the statement on blacks were to some extent duplicated in Muskie's later speech to the Governors' Conference the night after the bloody recapture of the Attica prison. Putting aside a prepared text on revenue-sharing, the Senator told the governors that "at this moment there is only one thing to say: the Attica tragedy is more stark proof that something is terribly wrong in America."

That is not a line generally recommended to Presidential candidates, nor was Muskie's advice to his audience to "ponder how and why we have reached the point where men would rather die than live another day in America." And while all politicians are fond of making statements like the pledge that followed ("the only decent course now is a single, clarifying decision -- at long last, a genuine commitment of our vast resources to the human needs of people"), still the context in which the Senator was speaking gave it a certain ring of determination.

This speech also represented an apparent effort to face up to unpleasant but important facts and to speak frankly about them, even though incurring some political risk. It also arose obviously from strong emotions; and if the ability to feel something passionately is the opposite coin of the fabled Muskie temper, hurrah for that.

These remarks may not make Ed Muskie much more or less a front-runner than he already was, nor do they necessarily show him to be the best man or the best candidate the Democrats have. But at least it ought to be noted that there was nothing bland, wishy-washy or centrist about the Muskie who made those statements: maybe the image is only in the eye of the beholder.

Supreme Court Choice? Rep. Poff's Profile

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON—"I'd rather be on the Supreme Court than be President," Rep. Richard H. Poff has been known to declare. If the Virginia Republican reaches that dreamed-of goal, Poff will have done so by a little-traveled path.

Only eight men in history—and only three in the 20th century—have moved directly to the Court from a seat in Congress. Only two of those men were Representatives; all three of those named from Congress to the Court in this century were Senators. One of those was the late Hugo L. Black, whose resignation Sept. 17 cleared the way for Poff's possible nomination.

Two objections to his nomination were raised as soon as the possibility was mentioned. Civil rights groups announced they would oppose Poff's appointment because he has opposed civil rights measures and signed the Southern Manifesto expressing opposition to the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

Qualifications Bill

In addition, the Americans for Democratic Action pointed out that Poff was not qualified for a Supreme Court seat measured against his own standards.

In early 1969 Poff introduced a bill which set qualifications for Supreme Court nominees. He included a requirement that the nominee must have practiced law for 10 years or have served in a judicial position for at least five years.

Poff—who entered Congress in 1953, less than five years after graduating from law school—fills neither of these criteria. He did not reintroduce the bill in the 92nd Congress.

Judiciary Committee

Poff, 47, has had an unusual grounding in constitutional law through his experience on the House Judiciary Committee, of which he is now acting ranking minority member in the absence of ailing William M. McCulloch of Ohio. In addition, he served as chairman of the Republican Task Force on Crime, formed in 1967, and vice-chairman of the Commission on Reform of Federal Criminal Laws.

Poff was an architect of many of the Nixon Administration crime-control proposals. The chief components of this anticrime program, which Congress approved in 1970, were an organized crime control act, a comprehensive drug control statute, and a "model" court reorganization and criminal procedures reform act for the District of Columbia.

All of these contained elements—such as "no-knock" entry by police officers, preventive detention, and extended sentences—which were attacked as unconstitutional by civil liberty groups.

Successful Advocate

Poff effectively defended many of these provisions, marshalling the constitutional precedents and Supreme Court decisions to prove the appropriateness of the proposed procedures. This role drew criticism from some of his colleagues in the House.

One, Bob Eckhardt of Texas, described Poff during debate on the organized crime bill, as "a man who is very learned in the law...who has exercised his great expertise frequently to walk with exquisite precision on the very outside borders of the Constitution. I think he has in this case overstepped."

The crime-control package won congressional approval; Poff won the respect and gratitude of President Nixon and Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

A Long Year For Solons

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG—Columnist's Notebook: The Long Year—For those expecting Pennsylvania's 1971 legislative session to waft into oblivion for the year a week or two following its return from summer recess on Monday, disappointment may well be the order of the day.

Indications at this point are that the session will continue throughout much of the remainder of the year, perhaps even blending into the upcoming 1972 session convening January 4, with recesses spotted here and there for the November election, Thanksgiving, Christmas, etc.

Reason for the possible extended session again this year is that much still remains to be accomplished on the Keystone State's legislative front—with one of the biggest thorns centering around reapportionment of Pennsylvania's 27 congressional districts into the 25 as a result of the 1970 census.

Legislative reapportionment of Pennsylvania's 50 state Senate seats and the 203 seats in the House of Representatives also is the order of the day this year—but that is being handled, at least in theory, by a special legislative commission.

Some of the more ticklish items such as so-called "no-fault insurance," changing Pennsylvania's divorce laws and Pennsylvania's strip mining law in all probability will be carried over to the 1972 gathering, depending upon legislative "receptiveness" during the remainder of the current session.

Worth noting is the fact that when the Legislature convenes in January it will not be starting an entirely new session inasmuch as legislatures in Pennsylvania now run on two-year spans, although by constitutional decree the Legislature actually convenes officially each year.

This means that committee assignments, for example, will continue throughout next year. House and Senate leaderships will remain unchanged, and bills introduced this year will not have to be re-introduced next year.

Shoe On The Other Foot—With proper sounding of verbal heralds and trumpets Governor Shapp this week signed into law the expanded unemployment compensation bill providing increased benefits for Pennsylvania's jobless workers—estimated by His Excellency to cost Pennsylvania business and industry (which picks up the entire tab of the UC program—non workers) an annual $85,000,000.

Pointing out that with some 267,000 Pennsylvanians out of work and a rate of unemployment in the state now at 5.5 percent, His Excellency said:

"Under existing national economic conditions, there is little indication of a change for the better in this picture."

Curiously, before he became Governor and during his campaign last fall for the governorship, His Democratic Excellency contended at that time that Pennsylvania's depressed economy and unemployment were the fault of the then in office Republican Shafer Administration.

A bit different when the shoe's on the other foot, eh Governor?

Whatever Happened To...—Hugh E. Flaherty, the bouncing, hefty and usually jovial legislative and public affairs secretary to former Governor Shafer?

After leaving the gubernatorial sanctum at the end of the Shafer reign, the onetime Philadelphia newsman moved to Washington to serve as associate director of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse—but now has been named a vice-president of the Pittsburgh-based Pennsylvania National Bank where he heads the bank's information department.

Upcoming Deadline—Monday (Oct. 4) is the last day on which notices of removal within the same election district must be received by county boards of elections.

Civil Rights Record

Poff has opposed every civil rights bill which Congress has considered during his 18 years in the House of Representatives. He cast his vote against the Civil Rights Acts of 1957-1960, 1964 and 1968. He opposed the Voting Rights Acts of 1965 and of 1970.

Clarence Mitchell, chief of civil rights lobbyists in Washington and director of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has said that Poff in some ways had a worse civil rights record than G. Harrold Carswell, who was denied confirmation to the Supreme Court in 1970 after an intensive lobbying effort by civil rights groups.

This criticism of Poff was somewhat offset by the endorsement given the potential nominee by two veteran civil rights champions, House Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler—a New York Democrat—and ranking minority member McCulloch. Celler and McCulloch said that Poff was "exceptionally well qualified" for the Court.

"Never a Court-cusser"

Despite his disagreement with many of the criminal law and civil rights rulings, Poff has rarely voiced public criticism.

"I've often disagreed with the rationale of some Supreme Court decisions," he has said, "but I've never been a court-cusser."

Poff's name was mentioned in 1969 when Mr. Nixon was looking for a successor to former Justice Abe Fortas. Poff was ineligible then, however, because the Constitution bars appointment of a member of Congress to any position for which Congress, during the current term, has increased the salary. Congress had raised the salaries of Supreme Court Justices early in 1969.

JIM BISHOP: REPORTER

The Couch Shows Sell My Books

Sometimes I am invited on the couch shows. It is the popular attitude for columnists to deride these netweb spinners as traps for idiots. Let me tell you, baby mine, that they sell books. The host holds the book up—or the record album—muttering "terrific!" and tosses it into the dustbin. Thousands of listeners go out and buy it.

At the moment, I am a thousand miles from Chicago and I would like to appear on Irv Kupcinet's show because he and I are a pair of well-worn shoes, but I must get back to the children. Maybe next month, or Christmas.

Last week, I taped two shows with David Frost and one with another old buddy, Mike Douglas. Each man has his separate personality and, of course, this is what draws the listeners. Douglas sings well, and he purposely diminishes himself to make his guests look big. Bigger than they are.

He is also the complete family man whose idea of an exciting time is to get the wife and kids into a station wagon and race off to a Howard Johnson's. Hugh Downs, who is quitting the "Today Show," was first heard as announcer on the Jack Paar show. Mr. Downs equates with me inasmuch as both of us are perpetual students—reading, learning, forgetting.

Paar was the all-time natural because he was unafraid to admit that he didn't know what the guest was talking about. He wasn't ignorant but, when he interrupted a monologue to ask a question, he was asking precisely what 30,000,000 persons would have asked.

Once, as a joke, he said that I was the world's greatest name dropper because I said to him: "Get off the phone. I'm expecting a call from the Vatican." There's a difference. His Holiness has a janitor.

But I can tell some on him, too. We have remained friends on and off the air and he cracked me up one day when he said: "Miriam and I just got back from the Holy Land and I made a lot of Easter film. I can't identify the places and you can. So come on the show and I'll show the film and you tell the people what they're looking at."

Mr. Paar was the first to fly a helicopter over the palace of Pontius Pilate. If he was there to lift Jesus into the sky on rescue, he was 2,000 years late. He was bright and handsome and nervous and, although I was on his show 25 or 30 times, he always paced the floor mumbling: "What am I going to say? I have nothing to say. Nothing. Nothing..." Then he went out and killed the people.

Johnny Carson is an intelligent clotheshorse. When he is in the mood, the show is hilarious. When he isn't, he tries to strangle himself with the knot of his tie. Still, he loses me with gabblers such as Phyllis Newman, who prattle about babies, husbands and lost identities.

Dick Cavett is a sharp, quick mind. He makes straight men of his guests and bounces his jokes off their boners. I listen. I enjoy. And I like that bald-headed second banana, Joe Garagiola. He learned to talk when he was a catcher for the Cards and, behind the mask, he baited the batters.

The top interviewer is David Frost, who comes to the camera prepared to ask his guests incisive questions. Mr. Frost is Great Britain's answer to Lend-Lease. He has an attitude of deep interest in his guest, and, unless the guest dies onstage, none of his millions of listeners dare to trot to the kitchen refrigerator or the bathroom while he is on.

Twice he led Senator Henry Jackson of Washington into stating: "Now let me make one thing clear," which is a Nixon original. Jackson tried to be coy about whether he would run for the Presidency, and his blushing recalcitrance made him look foolish.

Frost is so big here it is rumored that, desiring to buy the house he was born in, he went a step further and bought England. The index to success on these shows is not to swap pleasantries with the suckers, but to dig, probe mercilessly, for the facts of life. This, of course, is journalism.

Merv Griffin is the selfless type. He makes everyone look great, and is often the butt of his own jokes. Dinah Shore has started a talk show—ostensibly for the ladies—but she places herself in the chopped chives-on-baked-salamander class—and I do not expect much of it. I hope its expects less of me.

As a perennial guest on these things, I get away with murder because I keep reminding myself that I am a writer, not an actor. Only one person in the world argues with that thesis: my wife.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NEWS ANALYSIS

Israel's Meir: U.S. Undermines Peace

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir contends that the United States is undermining its own quest for a Middle East peace by denying Israel deliveries of warplanes.

Egypt is likely to see this as grounds for not compromising in peace efforts, she says—and in a situation where Egypt is receiving a continuous injection of military aid from the Soviet Union, the imbalance might encourage Cairo into a new battle against Israel.

Mrs. Meir stressed this issue during an hour-long interview in her Tel Aviv office with the general manager of The Associated Press, Wes Gallagher.

The withholding of American Phantom fighter planes is thought by many Israelis to be Washington's way of squeezing concessions from Jerusalem and breaking the Middle East diplomatic deadlock.

Mrs. Meir also made these points:

—Her government has been ready to return to the peace talks under U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring but is not prepared to accept his or Egypt's preconditions without negotiations.

—She is against allowing Egyptian troops to cross the Suez Canal after a partial Israeli withdrawal.

—The only guarantees for the region are that Israel have secure and defensible borders and that both sides really want peace.

The question-and-answer text included:

Q. Do you think the recent events on the Suez Canal mean that peace is breaking down?

A. There is no reason why it should. If it breaks down or not depends entirely on them (the Egyptians). The trouble with our neighbors throughout the years is that internal affairs have always influenced their attitude toward us. So one doesn't know exactly what is happening there, what the pressures are. And so on. For what they did on Sept. 17 (the downing of an Israeli transport plane) was uncalled for. There was no reason for it.

Q. Didn't Israel shoot the first plane down?

A. Yes, but when their plane came over our fortifications that was the difference.

Q. But they have been over before.

A. Yes, they have been over before. But that does not mean that we have accepted that nor will we accept it in the future. But that was something they shouldn't have done. There is a difference whether a plane comes right over our fortifications or whether our plane is 20 or 22 kilometers within our area.

Q. The Egyptians talk of pan-

Arabism and 100 million Arabs against 3 million Jews and talk in terms of a war that would go on for generations—a war of attrition.

A. For what? What are they going to do all this for? To gain what? Has anybody ever asked Sadat or Nasser before him, what is it that you want to achieve? War after war? Thousands dead, tens of thousands dead?

Now he's prepared to have a million dead. But what for? What is it that we have that is so vital to the life of the Egyptian people that he's prepared to have a million dead? He thinks we also will have to lose a million lives. Fine. Two million lives lost. For what? What is it that we have that Egypt cannot possibly get along without?

Q. For the moment you have their territory.

A. Yes, but history does not begin now. No one has yet given us a reasonable answer as to why Nasser began the war in 1967. We have not yet heard one reasonable answer. What did we do (during the month of May 1967) that provoked an action of that kind on his part?

Q. Whether it is a reasonable thing or not is something else. Maybe they would continue.

A. He speaks of generations. No man, not even the president of Egypt, can foretell what is going to happen to generations.

What is his interest now? Is he going to war now or not? He'll go to war, if he thinks he can win. Or even if he thinks he cannot, he'll do it again? That depends entirely on the internal pressures upon him, and we don't know ... what's happening in Egypt, who is pressuring him.

Q. Israel has rejected any preconditions to peace talks, such as the Egyptian demand for a phased withdrawal from the Sinai. But haven't you imposed preconditions of your own with your stand on the Golan Heights, Sharm el Sheikh and establishing Jewish communities in what was formerly Jordan territory?

A. No, sir. One must differentiate between positions and preconditions. Sadat says, I demand that Israel should pull back completely from all territories before negotiations. That is their line. If he says this in negotiations, fine. But when he says I will not negotiate, even indirectly, unless beforehand Israel commits herself to withdraw from all territories, there's a difference, isn't there? For instance, when Dr. Jarring turned out his paper in February, and after that Sadat answered and was hailed all over the world and also by us ... he said something ... the worst words for them to use: he's prepared to enter into a peace agreement with Israel and added that this will happen after Israel commits itself to withdraw to the former borders.

What happens usually throughout history in wars of this kind? One party, one people, get up and attack another and lose the war. What does the party, the winning party that managed to remain alive, do? It usually comes to the losing side with a document: sign on the dotted line.

We didn't do that. I think maybe that was a great mistake. For had we started with that, then if we said, well, all right, we are prepared to negotiate, maybe then we would have been reasonable. Not so obstinate, more flexible.

But we started with the right thing. We knew we would have to live in this area. We know that we must live in peace with the Arabs in this area, whether the present leaders want it or not, because peace is necessary not only for Israel, but also for the masses of tens of millions of Arabs.

We said, let's negotiate ... directly between the parties concerned. The parties who fought each other are the parties that have to make peace with each other.

Q. But both you and President Sadat have said there is no mutual trust between Egypt and Israel. That being the case, what would you expect to come out of direct negotiations that would offer guarantees to Israel? Who could guarantee them?

A. The only guarantee is that both sides really and sincerely want to live in peace. And the only guarantee that we ask is that we have borders that are defensible, and, more important, borders that are in themselves ... to a certain degree—a deterrent.

Q. Will you keep some Jordan and Egyptian territory?

A. It is necessary for better borders ... Between Netanyahu and the former Jordanian border there were about 12 miles, so that big guns could be used from the other side of the border and shell Netanyahu.

Q. Is there any safety, in the light of history, in borders nowadays, with modern armaments?

A. I don't know of any people in the world, because of rockets and bombers, who have thrown their tanks into the ocean ... I only ask one thing: we are prepared to give up the privilege of being the first ones to decide that borders are not important, topography is not important, geography is not important. And therefore someone else would do it first. We are prepared to accept second place.

Q. You have an impasse which seems to center around the fact that Israel wants new borders and just what they are is subject to negotiations. But the Arab world says you have to give everything back and return to the 1967 borders.

A. Everything they had before '67, everything they want now, they had in '67 when they started the war. We've gone through Sharm el Sheikh in 1966-67. We were in Sharm el Sheikh then. We were in Gaza. All good people in the world said, pull back, depend upon us.

Finally we gave in. It wasn't the greatest hour in my life on March 1, 1967, when, on behalf of the Israel government I said we were pulling back from Sharm el Sheikh and the Gaza Strip.

We were promised then that the Egyptians would not return to the Gaza Strip ... Within 24 hours they came in.

Q. The impression in the United States is that the Israelis are holding up the American peace initiative or at least an interim settlement. Do you see any change in this situation?

A. Firstly, I don't accept that statement and can prove it with facts. This is not so. We have no better friends than the Americans. I don't know what impression they have but impressions are one thing, facts something else.

The facts are that when we presented our first paper to the U.S. government it said in public it was constructive. What happened is that Egypt does not accept it. What happened is that Sadat began by speaking about opening the canal and we said, by all means. And then he said the opening of the canal is not important to him as such.

In one statement he said it is not important since he gets the money he loses from the canal closure from others. Okay, not important. We lived without the canal for 20 years. Now we have the canal between us, but a canal that is operating will be a more effective disengagement of forces ... and no shooting because the canal will be operating.

We will step back from our fortifications, which is not simple. Are we so obstinate and intransigent if we are prepared to give up fortifications that mean a lot to us? We said, okay, we'll consider stepping back a short distance to enable Egyptian civilians to come in and do clearing of the canal.

The next word we get, the next word we hear is that the Egyptian army must cross. What kind of disengagement of forces is that? We said there would be a disengagement of forces—not shooting, not peace but no shooting. Therefore, the atmosphere, the quiet negotiations for a peace settlement would be better than it is now.

This certainly is contrary to the very concept of disengagement and will have the Egyptian army on our neck. How do they expect us to do that?

Q. Would you accept a U.N. force along the canal?

A. If we are separated I don't think it is necessary. I think it best the line is kept by Israel and Egyptian forces but we have never reached that point yet.

Q. The Israeli press has said that the United States is withholding its Phantoms and other planes until the Israeli government made some movement in this situation. Is this true and what movement would you make?

A. I cannot speak for the U.S. government as to why Phantoms are being withheld. I want to say that sometimes individuals, and even governments with the best of intentions, undermine what they themselves want. I want to give an example. I don't know whether this is so or not.

Sadat is demanding of the U.S. government—"Don't give Israel Phantoms." While Sadat gets MIG21s, MIG23s, Sukhoi 7s and Sukhoi 11s. Egypt gets SAM 2s, 3s, 4s, and 6s—a constant flow of arms from the Soviet Union.

But you, the United States, in order to prove to me that you really want peace close eyes to what Egypt is getting. You do not give Phantoms to Israel and then you will be able to break Israel, and Israel will accept what Sadat wants.

Suppose that others imagine the United States believes that, in order to bring about peace ... and I have no doubt that this is what the Americans want. They want peace, they don't want shooting.

But then they keep Phantoms away from Israel for a while, not to upset Sadat? Does this really work? Does this help or is it defeating the very purpose the United States wants? Because with a weak Israel there is no reason whatsoever why Sadat should make one single tiny move toward meeting somewhere down the line.

A weak Israel with no Phantoms, while Egypt is becoming stronger from day to day. More and more Russian personnel. More Russian pilots. Israel no Phantoms. Egypt becoming stronger. Why should he do that? What does Sadat have to compromise?

Then there is something more. I think Sadat knows like everybody else, it is not so simple to win the next war. If he could have crossed the canal he would have done it a long time ago. But supposing he is pressed. Supposing he is still weighing in his mind, should he, should he not?

What is gained by keeping Phantoms away from Israel? That helps peace? Unless anybody is convinced that what Israel really wants is one more war. It needs one more victory. I've never heard anybody say that. I don't think anybody doubts we want peace and we are convinced that the stronger Israel is, the greater the possibility for peace.

It's not as if two sides ... supposing the Russians say to the United States: "Look we're not delivering anything to Egypt, you don't deliver anything to Israel. We have two naughty children here. Let's deal with them." That's not the situation.

SMOKING DUMMIES AT JEFFERSON

Smoking Sam and Modern Millie, life-size smoking dummies made available by Northwestern Pennsylvania TB and Health Society Thursday demonstrated their abilities to sixth grade students at Jefferson Street School. By actually smoking cigarettes, they show students the harmful effects of smoking. The dummies have also been shown at Sheffield, Allegheny Valley and South Street Schools. Coordinating the health hazard program with the school district is Mrs. Florence L. Anundson.

school nurse at Sheffield and Allegheny Valley schools, and Bruce Smith, science coordinator for the school district. Pupils in the sixth grade classes of Miss Frances Bubash and Louis Rich witnessed the demonstrations Thursday. Shown in upper photo are Kim Carlson operating the controls of the tape recorders inside each dummy while Gary Wagner holds the script. Photo below shows the 'works' inside the dummies. Shapp To Speak At Slippery Rock Governor Milton J. Shapp will speak to more than 200 local officials from Western Pennsylvania at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Slippery Rock State College.

His talk will be part of a day-long conference on "Housing—Urban, Rural, Suburban: Is It Out of Reach?", sponsored by the Department of Community Affairs.

The conference will begin with a symposium on housing moderated by Secretary of Community Affairs William H. Wilcox. Panelists will include James McHale, Secretary of Agriculture; Joseph Snyder, executive director, Pennsylvania Housing Agency; Edward Hockstetter, director, Appalachia Program, Department of Commerce and other state and local officials.

Self-Promoters Preying On War Prisoners' Plight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The young woman seemed to be fighting back tears as she talked on the telephone about the prisoners of war in Vietnam. "Well, the publishing charge runs a total of $5, and God knows we need the help if we're ever going to get our men out of there," she said.

That appeal brought in thousands of dollars from residents of Orange County, Calif., who thought they might help the POWs by placing their names, for $5 each, in an obscure tabloid called Veterans News.

The Orange County district attorney's office closed the operation by court injunction this summer, charging it with "false, fraudulent, deceptive, or misleading" representations, and found a convicted armed robber in charge.

The incident is just one of an increasing number where self-promoters have capitalized on public sympathy for the plight of the POWs or on the tendency for families of prisoners or men missing in action to grasp at any hope.

In recent months: —A California promoter now in jail on a bad-check conviction gained the cooperation of POW-MIA family groups in California and Arizona for fund-raising activities which left one organization holding the financial bag.

—A Texas promoter lured an Atlanta POW group into grandiose plans for a benefit show, then abruptly departed town, leaving a string of unpaid bills behind him.

—A man who claims he's a lawyer and lists addressed in Idaho and Amsterdam has approached POW family groups in Miami, Norfolk, Va., and Phoenix, asking $25,000 to finance negotiations with Buddhist monks to care for prisoners in North Vietnamese camps. So far as is known, he hasn't collected a dime on his pitch.

—Four men and a woman hired teen-agers to solicit on street corners in Jackson, Miss., for the POW cause, and got out of town a step ahead of the police after three days of collections.

As the petition-signing and letter-writing for the POWs and MIAs has mounted nationwide this year, so has the fund raising.

The State Department privately takes a dim view of most of the fund raising activities. Officials question what could be done with the money that would benefit imprisoned or missing men. The exception is the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing, to which the government lends its tacit support as representing POW and MIA relatives.

Another group which has had some success is the Committee of Liaison, headed by Cora Weiss, in New York. Mrs. Weiss says the committee has spent $10,000 over the past 18 months. Most of the money, she said, has come from small, unsolicited donations.

Veterans News opened its Orange County operation in May. Its leader, Jack K. Armstrong, served time in jail during 1965 after pleading guilty to armed robbery. His record also lists a bad-conduct discharge from the Marines and court-martial convictions for unauthorized absence and theft of a .45 caliber pistol.

A pool of 70 telephone girls solicited funds for Veterans News and a team of runners picked up donations, said James J. Shaw, investigator for the district attorney. The girls, each of whom used the name Kathy Johnson, told people: "What we're doing is printing a special edition of the Veterans News for the POWs. We're sending copies to every congressman, senator, as well as to President Nixon, the Pope and world leaders everywhere. The reason I called was to find out if we could print your name in a special edition for the POWs and also if we might be able to ask you to help us out on the printing costs."

After the district attorney's office filed its complaint in Superior Court, Veterans News agreed July 21 to quit the solicitation and to pay $1,500 to two recognized POW-MIA organizations.

The activities of promoter Al Edwards also centered partly in Orange County. Mrs. Stephen Hanson, wife of a missing Marine pilot and board member of POW-MIA International Inc., of Tustin, Calif., said Edwards came into touch with her group last February through aiding a restaurateur who sponsored a fund-raising dinner for the organization.

"Then he came in and said he wanted to help us," said Mrs. Hanson. "After the successful dinner, we had no reason to doubt him. He was going to initiate some fund-raising projects."

"He was going to revamp the organization and go national. We were going to raise millions, and he would receive 10 per cent of the proceeds from the projects he started."

"But he began to claim 10 per cent of other projects we had already started," she continued. "The volunteers and families were upset."

About this time, the neighbor of the POW wife saw Edwards by coincidence and recognized him—under a different name. A police check showed Edwards was wanted on charges of passing bad checks. With the collaboration of POW-MIA International, Edwards was arrested in mid-April.

Penn State Experts Planning Courses

Supervisory experts will share their experiences with members of Commonwealth business and industry in television management programs presented by The Pennsylvania State University this fall.

Two courses, presented by Penn State's College of Business Administration and University of The Air, through continuing education, will combine television viewing with small group discussion.

"The Art and Science of Professional Supervision" course, designed for the first line supervisor, will survey the manager's job and focus on the fact that a supervisor gets his work done through other people.

"Interviewing for Results—Performance Review" will provide opportunities for the participants to gain practice in analyzing various interviewing techniques within the structure of the broadcast and their company.

Both courses focus on group discussion and participation. Thus, the supervisors are able to share personal experiences and points of view with the rest of the group, making the topics applicable to the group's interaction with the firm.

The courses begin October 11 and 12, respectively, and consist of thirty minute broadcasts. Each program is broadcast at an afternoon hour or at an evening hour once each week.

More information concerning the course descriptions, materials, and enrollment is available from the Continuing Education Office, 501 J. Orvis Keller Building, University Park, Pa. 16802, or by phoning (814) 865-3443.

Spring Creek Woman Named To Action Agency

Mrs. Raymond D. Miles of Spring Creek RD 1 was elected as the Youngsville target area representative to the board of directors of the Warren-Forest Counties Office of Economic Opportunity community action agency, at a Youngsville target area meeting on Tuesday, in the Youngsville high school.

News Of Tidioute

The annual bazaar and bake sale sponsored by the United Presbyterian Women will be held today and Saturday in the former Lodge Store, corner of Main and Buckingham sts. The sale will begin at 10 a.m. and continue all day.

The Good Shepherd Circle of the First Methodist Church wishes to announce that it will be taking orders for the Don Smith Candy for Christmas.

Junior Girl Scouts will meet each Tuesday after school from 3:15 to 4:15 in the social room of the United Presbyterian Church. Leaders are Mrs. Bruce Zeigler and Mrs. Dale Sorer.

The Mary Martha Class of the United Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Gordon Downey on Wednesday, September 15 at 7:30 p.m. with 12 members present.

Mrs. Grace McKown led the devotional period reading from Luke 17: 5-10 and an article from the Upper Room—"In the World but not Worldly." The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ada McManigle on October 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Miles has been active in the policy-making activities of the Head Start Committee, and is a "Head Start mother" at the Pittsfield center.

She will fill out the remaining year of the unexpired 3-year term of Allen Lyon, who resigned.

A principal speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Sue Collins, Head Start supervisor for Warren and Forest counties. Ninety children are currently using the four Head Start centers in the two counties, she said, and 75 of them are enrolled at the three centers in Warren County. The program operates six classes of 15 children each.

Thirty attend the Youngsville target area center at the old Pittsfield elementary school. Volunteer aides are urgently needed there. Mrs. Collins added to help conduct the weekday 4-hour sessions from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

John Swartzfager, chairman and supervisor of STRIDE, the agency established to meet the small transportation requirements of persons unable to provide their own, told the audience a service could be established for Youngsville area residents if the need was great enough. He suggested that senior citizens might wish to investigate the potential, pointing out that the shared cost could be as low as three cents per mile per seat. Neither age nor a person's financial position mattered, he said.

Swartzfager also reported on activities of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Of 45 jobs presently being filled by young people through the agency in Warren and Forest counties, 18 are in Youngsville, he said, and are mostly school-connected. Mrs. William C. Wilbert, general community representative on the OEO board, also participated in the program, answering questions on several facets of the community action agency services.

Try To Kill Leader

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Attackers riding in two cars tried to kill Iraq's Kurdish leader, Mullah Mustafah Barazani, Baghdad radio reported Thursday night.

The attackers hurled more than 50 hand grenades and wounded 10 persons, but Barazani escaped unhurt, the radio said.

A broadcast statement from the ruling Baath party command denounced the attack as an attempt to undermine a recent declaration which reconciled the national government with the rebel Kurds in Northern Iraq.

The shoplifter took a quick look around. Saw nobody watching. And stuffed a sweater in her handbag.

From his binocular balcony a store detective took it all in. He called his teammate on the floor below. The shoplifter was arrested. And later convicted.

The days when stores were an easy touch for shoplifters are definitely over. It's now a high-risk caper. The odds are decidedly against the shoplifter as the stores now use a wide range of security devices. Everything from one-way mirrors to closed circuit T.V. systems.

Why are we telling you this? Because we want young people to realize what they're getting into. Conviction for shoplifting could mean a criminal record that follows you around for the rest of your life.

It could kill your chances for college or a decent job. Or get you a thumbs-down when you apply for credit or a loan.

And shoplifting also affects people who'd never dream of stealing anything. Because shoplifters don't just steal from stores. Since shoplifters cause higher prices... shoplifters take everybody's money.

Pirates Finish On Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates used a two-run double by Jackie Hernandez to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 Thursday night in the final game of the regular season.

Manager Danny Murtaugh used five pitchers in a tune-up for the National League playoffs with Bob Moose, the second hurler, picking up his 11th victory against seven defeats.

Manny Sanguillen's sixth home run of the season tied the score 1-1 in the third, then the Pirates struck for three runs in the fourth to tag Billy Champion with his fifth loss in eight decisions.

Roberto Clemente opened the inning with a single, took third on a single by Willie Stargell and scored on a sacrifice fly by Al Oliver. Vic Davallilo singled and Hernandez followed with his two-run double to knock out Champion.

Philadelphia's final runs in the third came on a two-run homer by rookie Willie Montanez, his 30th of the season.

WEST FOREST'S FIRST-PLACE INDIANS

Pro Forecaster Eyes Upsets: Chicago and Saints To Emerge

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Can there really be Monsters? Do the Saints have more than a prayer? Come to think of it, does this prognosticator really have more than a prayer? The answer is a resounding maybe as he goes out on a limb once again, forecasting upset victories by Chicago over Los Angeles and New Orleans over Houston in this weekend's slate of National Football League action.

That rash decision is the result of an 8-4 record in last week's picks, including Cleveland's surprise squeaker over Baltimore—which reversed his opening-game devastation and evened the two-week selection record at 12-12.

So with that in mind, here's how it looks from this vantage point:

Chicago 24, Los Angeles 17: Nix has grabbed all the headlines but Jack Concannon has provided the Bears with a steady passing game. The Rams have failed to stop so-so offenses this year and Roman Gabriel has yet to get their serial attack back on the track.

New Orleans 28, Houston 17: The Oilers have been all but helpless against the pass, which Manning will use to great advantage. Houston has no ground game to speak of and the Saints are among the best in the National Conference against the pass.

Dallas 31, Washington 21: This collision between the Cowboys' No. 1 offense and the Redskins' No. 1 defense in the NFC should send Dallas off and running to a repeat as champion of the East, leaving in its wake the dreams of glory of Billy Kilmer and the rest of the surprising 'Skins.

Detroit 30, Atlanta 14: Bob Berry of the Falcons may be the top passer in the NFC but he hasn't run into a solid defense—until now. And their defense will be hard pressed to slow down the Lions' running game.

Baltimore 27, New England 10: The Colts, seething over their loss to Cleveland last Sunday, will be trying to take it out on the defense-slim Patriots. Baltimore, tops in defense in the AFC, should bury Jim Plunkett.

Minnesota 34, Buffalo 13: The Vikings, too, will be out for blood to make up for their defeat at the hands of the Bears last Sunday. The Bills have little hope of stopping the Minnesota steamroller.

Cincinnati 27, Green Bay 20: The Packers can stop the rush but not the pass, which is too bad for them since the Bengals' Virgil Carter just happens to be the best in the AFC in that department.

Kansas City 16, Denver 10: Len Dawson will find it difficult passing against the Broncos.

Miami 35, New York Jets 10: The Dolphins' running back tandem of Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick will move into high gear and the Bob Griese-to-Paul Warfield passing combination will demolish the Jets' secondary.

Pittsburgh 24, San Diego 20: The Steelers are tops in the AFC in stopping the rush — which doesn't really matter since the Chargers haven't got any. Terry Bradshaw will be the difference.

San Francisco 38, Philadelphia 13: John Brodie hasn't been able to get untracked so far—but he's been licking his chops at the thought of opening up against the hapless Eagles.

Cleveland 21, Oakland 20: The Raiders' pass defense will be a challenge to Bill Nelsen and the Browns' precision quarterback should meet the test while Daryle Lamonica falters against Cleveland's strong secondary.

St. Louis 27, New York Giants 6: The Cards have the NFC's second-best defense—but in this case, who cares? The Giants have little to throw against it.

A's Rough On Road

BALTIMORE (AP) — Opening the American League playoffs away from home might be a disadvantage for most baseball clubs, but apparently not for the Oakland Athletics.

They set a league record this season with 55 road victories, one more than the 1939 Yankees record. The A's were 55-25, the old Yanks 54-20.

Also, as Oakland Manager Dick Williams lamented while the A's were turning the AL's Western Division race into a runaway in August, "We're more appreciated on the road than at home."

There were about a thousand rooters on hand though for a rally at the Oakland International Airport Thursday when the A's departed for Baltimore. A Dixieland band blared sendoff music, shouts of "Beat the Birds" and placards with the same message were numerous. Each Oakland player was introduced before boarding the plane and given a cheer of encouragement.

"We're going back to Baltimore with the idea of winning two games," Williams told the crowd. "When we return Sunday night, we expect to come back a winner and be ready to wrap up the playoffs in the Coliseum."

Even with their great road record the A's can't be too happy that the out-of-town park where they begin the playoffs is Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

Horton Calls It A Career

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger outfielder Willie Horton says he is finished with baseball in Detroit.

"I'm not playing any more here," Horton said after the Tigers ended the season with a 2-1 loss to Cleveland Wednesday night. "I've made up my mind."

A Tiger spokesman said Thursday, however, that he did not know of any discussion between Horton and Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell or owner John Fetzer.

Horton, 27, has a reputation of being moody. He has been in and out of manager Billy Martin's doghouse all season.

He was pulled from Wednesday's game in the fifth inning when he ran out an inning-grounder at less than full speed.

Immediately after being taken out of the game, Horton went to the clubhouse without stopping in the dugout. He telephoned Tiger public relations man Bill Brown and said he was through.

"He just said 'I quit,'" Brown said. "I didn't put any stock in it. I thought he was mad at coming out. Before I had a chance to say anything, he hung up."

Horton, said his announcement was not based on being pulled from Wednesday's game. "I'm quitting," he said on the plane back from Cleveland. "I'm tired of bleeding. Being taken out of the game had nothing to do with it."

"I can't play any more in Detroit until I get peace of mind. I can't take this stuff any longer. It's killing me inside."

Martin reacted to Horton's announcement calmly.

"What can I say? I didn't announce anything—he did. Horton didn't go down the line to first base. When they do that, they're out of the game—Willie Horton or anybody else," Martin said.

Horton started off this season badly with a sore shoulder. However, he hit form in mid-season. But, on Aug. 27, he was hit in the eye with a pitch and missed most of the rest of the season.

While relations between Martin and Horton have been touchy, Horton said he has nothing against the manager. "We've never had an argument," he said. "Maybe we're not as close as we should be. I don't believe in going around with the manager after the game

QUAKER STATE MOTOR OIL

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

The groaning echo reverberates off the Vo-Tech building and wafts over the valley below, as the defensive linemen push and dodge the offense in a vain attempt to run down the wingback cutting around their right flank.

Over and over the team works out its deficiencies to the suitability of the perfectionist—the coach. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the same workout continues with the ferocity growing in degrees on a barometric scale that will eventually reach its saturation point Friday evening.

Preparation is over for what could be the biggest exam of the year—Oil City—and memory and desire carries the team—Warren—into its long-awaited match with the slightly favored foe.

Pride, respect, desire, etc., they all teeter in the background when the whistle officially signifies game time.

For one long year Warren has been waiting to get its hands on the Oilers for the humiliation suffered in 1970 at the same facility. Time, meditation and hard work has separated Warren from Oil City since their last get-together.

And now Warren is ready.

Most people, including die-hard Warren fans, don't bother to take in a practice before a game. To witness the pain, agony and frustration that crosses those unidentifiable faces under those plastic domes is proof of the intense inner feelings of the team as they huddle again to repeat the same tiresome play.

Coach Toby Shea and his staff knows what the game means to them as well as the community. A win in Oil City could hypo and restore the public's confidence in Warren's ability to be a superior gridiron team. The influx of Warren backers and well-wishers at tonight's game know what Warren can do. They saw it against Cory and cheered it at Greenville. A win tonight won't be unexpected. They know, as this writer does, that, although the Dragons are the underdogs on paper, it doesn't mean a thing and is as useless as the paper its printed on.

Reliable reports indicate that the Oilers aren't in the soundest of physical condition. Against Meadville, a tough but unoffensive club, Oil City barely snuck through. And last week Warren's foe tonight led 16-6 at the half against Grove City, but squandered the game in the last half by literally running out of gas.

Make no mistake about it. Oil City's a good club; it has bountiful material and coaching, but problems have arisen. A teacher's strike has hindered the even flow of the curriculum and Coach Pat Patterson hasn't been the most popular man in the town for crossing his co-worker's picket line.

The strike's over tentatively. Normalcy will be months away; everybody suffers including the football team.

And to watch Coach Shea and read the eyes seeking an avenging settlement tonight, you may get that eerie feeling he'd love to inflict more suffering on the gridiron.

Warren has what it takes to be a consistent winner; the rest is rudimentary. What will be seen tonight is unknown, but, if I have the slightest knowledge of this year's Dragons, Oil City's going to pay for the Dragons' extra-hard practices throughout the week, not to mention last year's 30-14 score.

Kevin Weigel's Arm Sore; Sheffield Meets Allegany

Allegany, N.Y. High School is a school without a leader.

Allegany, N.Y. High School is a team without a win.

Allegany, N.Y. High School, hobbled and winless, licks its wounds in readiness for the Sheffield Wolverines, now 1-2, this evening at 8:00 p.m.

According to Blue Devil Coach Bill Wilcox, his usual starting quarterback is out with injuries, joining several other starters that have been maimed in rough-and-tumble contact in the first three games.

That's only half of his problem. Port Allegany and Smethport have tracked over Allegany, the latter being a sound beating, 42-0. Consolation, whatever so small in a tie, came the Blue Devils' way in their second contest with Otto-Eldred.

With this grief and the brevity of action his twelve starting lettermen have seen, Coach Wilcox, it seems, has taken a negative attitude. In an interview last evening, he commented, "I've seen Sheffield twice. It is tough. Their linemen are big, and that should be punishment enough for us. I think they outweigh us at every position, but I still expect a close game."

Although not quite as pessimistic, Sheffield Coach Domville was cautious of the Blue Devils in saying, "They've lost a few. Against Smethport nothing went right for them from the beginning...fumbles and bad breaks. Wilcox has a better ball club than they showed against Smethport. They're a lot quicker than us; that should be an asset for them."

The Wolverine mentor noted that his forces will be intact, but the walking-wounded has grown in proportion. Jim Rudolph and Craig Anderson are limping from injuries, while quarterback Kevin Weigel's passing shoulder has been ailing during practice, which possibly could stunt Sheffield's passing attack against the Blue Devils.

The second-year head coach left the telephone interview in voicing these words, "Whoever wants to play the game should win."

Domville and Wolverine fans will find that out around 10:15 this evening.

Girls Basketball Starts Next Week

A high school girl with a per-game average of over 20 points. Sound funny? "Not here," you say.

It may sound funny, but don't laugh if the possibility became a reality in the Girls Senior High School Basketball League.

In its second year in operation, the league, under the supervision of Director of Athletics Hal Miller, is about to start operation Tuesday afternoon.

Five teams—Warren, Tidioute, Youngsville, Eisenhower and Sheffield—will make up the eight-game schedule, with Tidioute returning as the defending champ.

According to Miller, the program is the expansion of the school district's intramural idea, putting emphasis on the non-varsity sports, and getting participation in athletics for more numbers, especially in the area where he feels that the district is weak—the distaff side.

Miller said, "We have a girls' volleyball tourney; now we are experimenting with the idea to bring the boys and girls together in a co-ed league." Getting back to the basketball league, Miller inserted, "We're running the program after school twice a week. Teachers will referee the games, and, of course, we welcome spectators. Winners of the first and second half will play in a championship game, if one team doesn't win both halves."

Assisting Miller at Warren will be Charlotte Wasielewski; Youngsville, Paula Mead; Sheffield, Linda Christensen; Tidioute, Marjorie Olson; Eisenhower, Lucille Leathers. Game time for all contests will start at 4:00 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays; one school will be idle on each playing date. Here is the schedule.

FIRST HALF
Oct. 5: Youngsville at Eisenhower, Tidioute at Warren, Oct. 7: Tidioute at Youngsville, Eisenhower at Sheffield, Oct. 12: Eisenhower at Tidioute, Warren at Sheffield, Oct. 14: Warren at Youngsville, Sheffield at Tidioute, Oct. 19: Eisenhower at Warren, Youngsville at Sheffield.

SECOND HALF
Oct. 21: Eisenhower at Youngsville, Warren at Tidioute, Oct. 26: Sheffield at Eisenhower, Youngsville at Tidioute, Oct. 28: Tidioute at Eisenhower, Sheffield at Warren, Nov. 2: Youngsville at Warren, Tidioute at Sheffield, Nov. 4: Warren at Eisenhower, Sheffield at Youngsville.

Warren's 'Big Game' Tonight At Oil City

By DENNY BONAVITA
Jamestown is "down" this year, Franklin is still a month away, and Oil City is available—now.
But available isn't always synonymous with conquerable.

In the case of tonight's game, shaping up as 1971's "big game" for Warren High's 2-1 Dragons, a victory would mean a long and perhaps decisive step down the trail toward sole possession of a league title, an honor that has been absent from the Dragons' war chest for over a decade.

A defeat wouldn't end the season, as the Oilers have one loss already, a 20-16 upset by Grove City last weekend, and the Dragons now 2-0 in the Northwest Football Conference, would still have the opportunity to give Franklin a loss. But after last year's 30-14 humiliation at Oil City, another defeat would be a bitter pill for WAHS coach Toby Shea and his team to swallow.

On paper, the Oilers had an edge at pre-season time. Their lineup, senior-studded, with good speed in the backfield (halfback Ted Kauffman: 4.8 in the 40) and a 193-pound line average, is formidable. Their coaching, by third-year veteran Pat Patterson and his staff, is competent, and their game plan—run at you until you give, then pass for a touchdown—has been eminently successful on past occasions.

That it wasn't last week was, in Patterson's estimation, his own fault. "I called the plays, and I gambled too much," he said Thursday night. Grove City ran the triple option just a bit too well, said Patterson, who indicated that his Oilers are healthy and ready for Warren. "We expect a whale of a ball game," he said.

His lineup is 6-1 George Sterner at quarterback, 5-11, 170-pound Randy Loudon and 5-10, 165-pound Kauffman at the halfbacks, and power-running Mike McNerny at fullback. 6-2 end Gary Davis has caught two TD passes, while 6-2 Casimir Barsez, the other end, has one. Tackles are 200-pound Carl Lutz and 170-pound Daryl Beichner, while guards are 180-pounders Larry Dietz and Ron Martina. At 225 pounds, senior center

Steve Clark is as big as they come in the Northwest Football Conference at his position.

Warren plans no changes in its lineup, according to Shea. Oil City will be forced to pay attention to Dragon split end Mike Piehuta, with two touchdown catches and a half-dozen circus grabs to his credit this year. And Dragon 200-pound tackle Fred Martin played the best game of the season for a Dragon lineman in Warren's win over Greenville.

Rob Young, a sophomore who improves with each game, is at quarterback, while speedy runner and superb punter Tom Bright is at tailback. Dave Tannler, who showed solid ability last week, is at fullback, with flashy Jim Stromdahl, the backfield's lone senior, at wingback. Don Trubic will be the tight end, while Jeff Myers, a defensive standout, will alternate with Piehuta. Pete

Salerno, who seems to rise to the big play occasion, and steady Dave Dunn, a perfect complement to Martin, are the guards, while Chris Sirianni at the other tackle and Andy Lucks at center complete the line.

Lucks and junior Vic Anderson will go at linebacker for the Dragons.

Oil City favors a wing-T formation with variations on offense, and a 4-4 Penn State basic defense. Warren, a wing-T team with I-formation variations, defenses from a 6-2 alignment.

Game time is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Oil City.

Fund-Raising Award Goes To Local Heart Association

The Allegheny Heart Association received an achievement award for outstanding fund raising efforts recently during the Pennsylvania Heart Association's annual assembly awards luncheon in Harrisburg.

The local association earned the citation for raising eight percent more in 1971 than they did in the 1970 drive.

Ross Ferraro, the chapter president from Brockway Pa., accepted the award for the regional group.

He said the money raised is being used for research, school and cardiopulmonary resuscitation training programs and for all rheumatic fever patients.

It was revealed after the two-day PHA session that 1971 drives across the state accumulated $2,153,066—an increase of more than $129,000.

Approximately $500,000 has been allocated by heart associations to cardiovascular research projects across the state this year.

Delegates to the PHA assembly this year from the northwest area were Mrs. James Potter, Raymond Lowe, M.D., and Ralph Santo from Warren County and Mrs. Alverta Snyder, Clearfield County.

Those attending representing the Allegheny Mountain Heart Association were: Dr. Smaungo, McKean County;

Mrs. Betty Putnam, Warren County; Mrs. Barbara Wallace and Mrs. Eleanor Mosch, Potter County; Mrs. Harry Jacobson and Mrs. Faith Handly, Elk County; Ross Ferraro and Charles Maxwell, Jefferson County and Frank Reed, Clearfield County.

Schweiker Votes Yes; Scott No

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pennsylvania's two U.S. senators split votes Wednesday as the Senate rejected 64-21 an amendment by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, to bar funds for deployment, construction and procurement of the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile (AMB) defense system.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, D-Pa., voted for the measure. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., cast a negative vote.

Peek 'N Peak Registers Stock Offering

The parent corporation of Youngsville's Peek 'N Mountain Ski Resort has filed a registration statement for a public stock offering with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The proposed offering by Peek 'N Peak Recreation, Inc., of French Creek Township in Chautauque County, N.Y., is a $3 million combination of securities sold in 1500 units including 100 common shares at $5 per share and two $500 principal amount of 9 per cent subordinated debentures due Jan. 1, 1987, with warrants attached to purchase 50 additional common shares per unit for $6.50 per share and which are exercisable in 1975.

J.N. Russell, Inc., of Cleveland and P.B. Root and Company of Erie are managers of the underwriting group.

The company intends to expand its present operation at Peek 'N Peak in Clymer to a year-around facility with the net proceeds of the proposed offering.

The all-season recreation area will include a 100-room hotel complex with dining rooms, cocktail lounge, meeting rooms, gift shop, swimming pool, tennis courts and golf course.

Peek 'N Peak began operation in 1964 with its present management. Chairman of the board is Philip T. Gravink, a National Ski Areas Association director. Other officers include Ernest W. Calfisch, president; George Boozel, vice president; and Myrl D. Babcock, secretary-treasurer. Other directors are J. Boyd Bert of Erie, Dr. Thaddeus S. Gabreski of Oil City, Don E. Geiger of Cleveland, Thomas B. Redinger of J.N. Russell, Inc., and David B. Root of P.B. Root and Company.

AWARD PRESENTED

Dr. C.A. Laubach and Dr. Lyle, left, officers of the Pennsylvania Health Association, present an achievement award to Mrs. Barbara Wallace and Ross Ferraro of the Allegheny Mountain Heart Association for "outstanding success during the 1971 heart fund drive" in this area.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Bills For Beauty

By Sylvia Porter

For mounting numbers of Americans, the monthly "beautification" bill is now running into hundreds of dollars. Out of every $20 you spend in the supermarket today, 67 cents goes for "health and beauty" aids. Despite the 1970 recession, your purchases of cosmetics alone rose 16.5 per cent and your spending for toiletries, beauty and barbershop services, perfumes, sauna baths, etc., soared to a staggering $10 billion. On top of that, you spent an all-time peak $4 billion for jewelry, watches and similar adornments last year. Then on top of that, you spent billions more for special diet foods, weight-reducing gimmicks, a whole range of other vanity-oriented products and services.

One thing is a certainty: the costs of goods and services in this area are heading up through all the years ahead that can be foreseen. Another thing also is a certainty: if you need and want to, you can cut your own beautification bill by as much as 25 to 50 per cent without diminishing your BEAUTY one iota. Here goes:

(1) When buying diet foods, keep in mind that you may be paying double the price of a low-calorie equivalent not specially designated. Examples: fresh fruits in season vs. low-cal canned foods, thin sliced regular bread vs. low-cal brands, certain crackers.

(2) Study the labels on diet foods. By federal law, the labels on products advertised as diet foods must tell you certain details about their dietary characteristics. Be wary of all weight reduction "miracles"—the only proven way to cut your weight significantly is to cut the number of calories you consume.

(3) Choose a hair-do and haircut you can maintain and easily reproduce yourself. Compare services among most expensive, moderate and least expensive hairdressers and barbers; there is no sense paying for an expensive hair-stylist's talents if your hair is simply styled.

(4) Check the label of any cosmetic (particularly skin cream or hair preparations) for weight. Packaging of these preparations is frequently deceptive to the eye. Study too the active ingredients and claims; the cosmetic's claim must be effective, as stated on the label.

(5) On skin creams with an oil-type base, heed the statement of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that it is "unaware that one particular oil is any better than any other lubricating oil. Some oils are more expensive than others." Quite a money-saver!

(6) Buy cosmetics in as large quantities as practical, especially hand lotions, soap by the case, cologne, etc. And pay attention to unit prices if stated (7 cents per oz., 79 cents per 100, etc.).

(7) As with food, take advantage of the great savings possible by shopping advertised cosmetic "specials" and trying house brand varieties offered by certain drug stores and department stores.

(8) Do not downgrade the impressive savings you can achieve by patronizing discount drug stores, supermarkets, other retail outlets in this category. You can save 25 per cent or more in discount drug stores alone, as this chart drawn up by the New York State Consumer Education staff in New York City underlines.

Product	Discount Drug	Regular Drug
Mouthwash 20 oz.	$1.09	$1.39
Toothpaste 4 15 oz.	.65	.89
5 1/2-in. steel razor blades	1.59	2.19
Shaving cream 15 oz.	.75	1.19
Spray deodorant 13 oz.	1.69	2.49
After shave lotion 16 oz.	.99	1.25
Hair Cream 15 oz.	1.19	1.89
Hair spray 13 oz.	.79	.98
Shampoo 13 oz.	1.19	1.59
Cologne 4 oz.	2.00	2.50
Total	$11.91	$16.36

(9) Plan to buy your costume jewelry during the post-Christmas sales in January. There always are major mark-downs.

(10) When shopping for expensive jewelry, tell the jeweler your price range as soon as you enter the store. The reputable jeweler will not try to talk you beyond your stated maximums. Walk out of any store where the jeweler criticizes the advertised price and tries to trade you up to a higher price range. And if you must finance your jewelry purchase, make sure you thoroughly understand all credit and other terms; carrying charges, warranties, insurance costs. Then compare these costs and terms with those offered by other lending sources before you take the deal offered by the jeweler.

Market Stages Feeble Rally

NEW YORK — The stock market staged a feeble rally Thursday in moderate trading. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 3.36 at 887.19.

Analysts said the buying was primarily due to bargain-hunting among selected issues. The market has been edging downward in recent sessions, and many brokers described it as oversold.

But the buying never developed into a full-scale rally, and after its initial spurt, drifted sideways most of the session.

Early Morning Crash Claims Lives Of Man, Woman

Highway Death Toll Reaches 13

The Thursday road deaths of Craig T. McDonald and Dixie Ann Rasor brought Warren County fatalities to 13 for the year, including three in the past week. Kenneth P. Reddinger was killed on Tuesday in an auto accident near Akeley.

As of October 3, 1970 there had been 17 road deaths in the county with June recording five of these, three on June 21. There were single fatalities on June 6 and 7 last year.

In January 1970 there were three deaths and two in February and one each in March and April. May was deathless as was July, but four persons died in August and one more on Oct. 13 to bring the total to 17.

This year, one person died on the roads in January, February, April and May. Three perished in June with two recorded on June 10. July saw two road deaths and August six. The three this month bring the road toll to 13.

EARLY MORNING CRASH TAKES TWO LIVES

Two were killed Thursday morning on Conewango ave. when this sedan slammed into two trees at high speed killing the driver of the car, Craig Thomas McDonald of Sheffield, and a passenger, Dixie Ann Rasor of Norfolk, Va. (Photo by Lester)

A Sheffield man and a Virginia woman died Thursday morning at the edge of Warren Borough when the man lost control of his car and crashed into two large trees on Conewango ave.

Warren Borough Police said the operator of the vehicle, Craig Thomas McDonald, 23, of 301 Church st., Sheffield, apparently failed to negotiate a curve while traveling south on Conewango ave. at a high rate of speed near the borough line.

His auto jumped the west curb, bounced off a large tree, slammed into another tree thirty feet beyond the first and finally came to rest on the roadway 55 feet south of the second tree.

The woman, a passenger in the car, was identified as Dixie Ann Rasor, 23, of 127 Ingram st., Norfolk, Va.

Both victims were trapped in the car until Warren Fire Department crews arrived to extract them from the wreckage. Both were pronounced dead on arrival at Warren General Hospital.

The accident occurred around 1:40 a.m. approximately 110 feet south of Quaker rd. James

A. Tridico, Conewango Township Police chief, who lives near the scene of the crash at 1101 Conewango ave. said Thursday that the collision was so great a headlight from the car was thrown through his basement window, a considerable distance from the point of impact.

The deaths are the first traffic-related fatalities in Warren Borough since June of 1970.

McDonald was born in Kane on July 26, 1948 but had lived in Sheffield all his life. He was a member of the Sheffield First Methodist Church and was discharged from the Navy less than two months ago.

He was preceded in death by his mother, Luester Marie McDonald on November 24, 1962.

He is survived by his wife, Donna; a daughter, Jennifer Lynn; and two brothers, Carter McDonald of Sheffield and Scott McDonald of Warren.

Friends may call at the Borden Funeral Home, Sheffield, from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday with the Rev. George W. Campbell officiating. Interment will follow in Sheffield Cemetery.

Some Miners Hide Black Lung Sickness

BOSTON (AP) — There are some miners in this country who don't want their employers to find out they are suffering from "black lung" ailments, because they don't want to lose the jobs that are killing them.

It comes about because of a two-year-old federal law which says miners whose lung condition reaches a certain level, must quit work. They receive compensation, but their incomes then fall below their normal mine earnings.

Dr. Benjamin Felson, professor and chairman of the Department of Radiology at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, said in an interview Thursday he has encountered cases of miners whose chest X-rays showed they should stop working in the actual mining operation.

He said in more severe cases they should quit work altogether, but they refuse to allow their medical records to be shown to the authorities who could order them transferred to less hazardous jobs, or to be retired for disability.

The "black lung" ailment doesn't apply only to soft coal miners. Dr. Felson said at the annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society.

"The overall term is pneumoconiosis," he said. "Soft coal miners get it from the dust and silica they breathe. But there is also asbestosis—that is widespread and silicosis which comes from rock dust breathed by anthracite miners or tunnel workers cutting rock."

"It is irreversible; once the dust is in there, you can't get it out."

Dr. Felson, who also is a consultant to the U.S. Public Health Service division in Occupational Health, which has a branch in Cincinnati, is working with a group of radiologists and chest specialists to establish on an international level a new method of classifying the degree of involvement in the pneumoconiosis of the lungs.

Correction!

SEATTLE (AP) — A young Marine lance corporal convicted of manslaughter in a shooting incident at Puget Sound Naval Shipyard was sentenced to two years at hard labor and given a bad conduct discharge here Tuesday.

Lance Corp. Gordon F. Totten of Radford, Va., was convicted last Friday in the slaying of Machinists Mate 2C Robert G. Prochaska at the Bremerton Naval installation March 23.

Totten was originally identified as being from Bradford, Pa.

Delay Water Control Deadline For 2 Rivers

PITTSBURGH — The federal government has approved an 18-month delay in implementation of water quality controls for industrial and municipal polluters along the Ohio and Monongahela Rivers, in western Pennsylvania, saying a July 1972 deadline was "no longer realistic."

William L. West, chemical engineer for the Environmental Protection Agency's enforcement division at Wheeling, W. Va., said Thursday the postponement was necessary because Pennsylvania's Sanitary Water Board had issued the original implementation order too late for the majority of the offenders to comply.

West told delegates at an Ohio River Enforcement Conference here that his agency has concluded that the pollution of the two rivers in Pennsylvania is causing degradation of interstate waters in Ohio and West Virginia, and is endangering the health and welfare of the residents of those states.

He indicated that the present pollution standards in Pennsylvania are much less stringent than those in West Virginia and Ohio, resulting in potential serious health problems in those states.

Press Rolls Once Again

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Thursday's editions of the Pittsburgh Press rolled off the presses without a hitch following a one-day strike by pressmen that halted publication of the evening daily Wednesday.

U.S. District Court Judge John Miller issued a temporary restraining order Wednesday afternoon, hours after the pressmen walked off their jobs. Miller scheduled a hearing for Oct. 8 on a request by the company to make the restraining order permanent.

The temporary injunction forced the pressmen back to work in time to turn out the early editions of the morning Post-Gazette, which is printed under contract in the Press plant.

The strike came just eight days after the two papers resumed publication following a four-month walkout caused by a series of labor disputes with craft unions.

The pressmen's union was the only union not involved in the recent four-month work stoppage. It had struck the press last January when its old contract expired. That strike lasted two weeks.

rious health problems in those states.

West said there are 22 major industrial firms discharging into the Ohio River in Pennsylvania, mainly chemical, steel and power plants, with 22 other firms discharging lesser amounts of waste.

He charged that United States Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel producer, was the major industrial polluter of the Monongahela River, with five plants discharging at various river front points.

He said tests have revealed that the major pollutants in the river are cyanides, bacteria, thermal, coliform bacteria, phenols, and oil.

"To emphasize the sanitary significance of the indicator," West said, "detection of salmonella bacteria has been discovered."

Walter A. Lyon, Director of Pennsylvania's Bureau of Sanitary Engineering did not agree with the government's report and accused West of "collecting pollution data on what's called fishing expeditions to make people look bad."

Lyon also charged that the report was "guilty of sins by omission" in that some of the pollution controls proposed by various state municipalities had not been mentioned.

To help control the pollution

the government recommended the following controls:

—All boroughs, townships and sanitation authorities discharging municipal waste into the rivers provide a minimum of secondary treatment for an 85 per cent pollution reduction.

—The Allegheny County Sanitary Authority have a minimum of a 90 per cent pollution reduction.

—All polluters conform with U.S. Health Dept. drinking water standards.

In addition, the report calls for nuclear power plants to include facilities for off-stream cooling throughout the year by December 1975. All municipal and industrial polluters would meet their requirements by December 1973.

Following his presentation West told newsmen he was confident that some mutually agreeable arrangement could be worked out between the three states and warned the government will not be timid about enforcing the standards.

"There's a lot we don't know about certain kinds of pollution," he said, "but we've got to go after those we know about in order to protect the health of our citizens."

The conference, called by the Environmental Protection Agency, was to conclude Friday.

This article is the last in a three-part series relating to the public meeting being held in St. Marys, Pennsylvania on October 6, to obtain a response from the people on the "Health Goals of the Commonwealth." The goals were developed by the Governor's Advisory Council for Comprehensive Health Planning.

The health goals and objectives for Northwest Pennsylvania were developed by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Northwest Pennsylvania, Inc. These are statewide health goals complement the statewide goals that will be discussed on October 6 in the meeting room of St. Marys Public Library at a meeting beginning at 7:00 p.m.

Two Bradford Women Hurt In Boston Crash

BOSTON, N.Y. — Two Bradford, Pa. women and one Boston woman were hospitalized following a two-car accident at the intersection of Abbott rd. and Herman Hill rd., here, at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Admitted to Buffalo General Hospital in satisfactory condition were Mrs. Frances Silverstone, 44, wife of Dr. Leslie B. Silverstone of 5 Vista Circle, Bradford, who suffered head lacerations, a cerebral concussion, a fractured wrist and a fractured shoulder blade; Mrs. Joette Henry, 40, wife of Dr. Walter J. Henry of N. Bennett st. ext., Bradford, suffering multiple fractures of the ribs. Treated and released was Mrs. Ruth Clemens, 50, wife of Edwin Clemens of 210 Jackson ave., Bradford, who sustained forehead contusions and abrasions.

Treated and released at Mercy Hospital, Buffalo, was Mrs. Sarah Cohen, 63, of North Miami, Fla., an aunt of Mrs. Silverstone.

Admitted in critical condition to Mercy Hospital was Mrs. Margaret Greenwood, 60, of Boston, N.Y., the driver of one of the cars involved. She suffered a head laceration and neck and spine injuries.

According to state police at Athol Springs, Mrs. Silverstone was eastbound on Herman Hill rd. and stopped for a stop sign. She pulled into the intersection and struck a northbound car on South Abbott rd. driven by Mrs. Greenwood. The impact drove the cars into three other cars parked in a nearby parking lot and damaged a small building in the lot as well.

Following is a list of the objectives of the Northwestern Council, in four different areas requiring immediate and continuous attention:

—Health Facilities: Identify on a regional and county basis those services that should be provided in or through hospitals and stimulate local planning for, and development of, these services in appropriate locations and amounts; to promote the development and coordination of long-term facilities.

—Health Manpower: To promote the development of a regional program to recruit trained health manpower; to promote and coordinate a comprehensive regional system of health training and placement; to urge the development and coordination of a regional program to recruit new people into health careers.

—Personal Health Services: To encourage and coordinate the development of comprehensive ambulatory health care services; to promote and coordinate the development of home health care services; to encourage and coordinate the development of comprehensive emergency health care programs.

—Environmental Health: To promote the development of a coordinative effort between voluntary, private, and governmental organizations to establish priorities in air, water and solid waste pollution control.

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Northwestern Pennsylvania has developed county councils to assure individualized health planning for each county within the agency. The counties have each established objectives for carrying out the northwest goals in their own area.

Opposition Looms For State Income Tax

HARRISBURG (AP) — State income tax legislation, which has undergone two legislative slugs already this year, appears ready for Round three when the House and Senate reconvene next week.

The upcoming bout features Shapp administration efforts to change the constitution to permit a graduated income tax. The opposition comes from some suburban lawmakers who fear graduation may be applied to local wage taxes.

A constitutional amendment, the first piece of legislation introduced in the House this year and subsequently passed by that chamber, is up for final consideration in the Senate now.

If approved, the joint resolution would be put in mothballs until the General Assembly of 1973 takes office. The constitution requires that non-emergency amendments pass two separately elected legislatures and then a referendum.

Supporters of the measure hope to have it before the voters in the primary of 1973. Shapp is seeking bipartisan support for the bill.

"I would hope we can get the past Republican governors and all Republican leaders in the state to work with us in this drive," he said at a news conference earlier.

Shapp aides report now, however, that a concerted push for the change would be premature at this time so no organized efforts are under way yet.

Martin L. Murray, Senate president pro tempore predicted the Senate would give speedy approval to the bill and the major lobbying thrust would follow.

Sen. John Stauffer, R-Delaware, meanwhile is preparing to introduce a proposal to restrict the graduation principle to statewide taxes. He claims to have strong support for the proposal and said he would have submitted it before the recess if the amendment had been called up.

"We're ready to do battle," Stauffer said in a telephone interview.

Since suburbanites who work in cities such as Philadelphia must pay the city's wage tax, Stauffer and others are concerned that their constituents would be forced to pay more under a graduated tax than less-affluent city dwellers.

Shapp advocates tax breaks for those least able to pay and pegs his concept of reform on graduated local taxes.

"In the tax bill we passed last March, we arranged to give a 30 per cent rebate to people for what they had paid on these regressive local taxes," Shapp said. "And I said then that we would be seeking to abolish the local taxes that are so regressive."

"That can't happen until we are able to get local taxes over to a graduated income tax basis as well."

In the past, graduated income tax efforts were shunted aside as political poison. Before the legislature agreed to call the Constitutional Convention of 1968-69, it specifically prohibited delegates from acting on Article 8, the uniformity of taxation clause.

Even Raymond P. Shafer, who tried desperately to get an income tax adopted in his last years as governor, campaigned against a graduated levy.

Most observers now, however, feel the time is ripe for a change. Even Stauffer concedes this, although he thinks the amendment will be shot down in the referendum unless it is restricted to state taxes.

Murray, on the other hand, predicted that the people would be eager for a graduated tax once they start paying the newly enacted flat levy.

"That's the best selling weapon we have," Murray added.

"Ever had a Newspaper Route?"

When a young man applies for a job he really wants—a job with "a future"—he is very apt to be asked, "Have you ever had a newspaper route?" His answer to that question may well decide whether or not he'll get the job.

Why? Because more and more employers are realizing that former newspaperboys already have a solid business background.

They've bought newspapers at wholesale—sold them at retail—and operated a business of their own. They've already learned that the only way to conduct a successful business is to give service... to keep present customers satisfied... and to get new customers.

Many of today's executives were yesterday's newspaperboys. They know that a newspaper route is the one part-time job open to a Young American that teaches initiative, the value of money and the importance of getting along with people.

Yes sir... there's no doubt about it. For jobs with "a future" employers prefer former newspaperboys.

If you have a son that you think might be interested in a newspaper route, why not write or phone us.

The Good Earth Crusade: Fighting Pollution For Fun And Profit

By Joe Wing

If pollution protesting bores or discourages you, there's another anti-pollution activity that will challenge your resourcefulness and that may even be profitable.

It consists simply of spotting an illegal discharge into one of the nation's navigable waters, obtaining evidence that will stand up in court and passing it along to a United States attorney. If the polluter is convicted, the judge may award you half of any fine, as provided by the 1899 Refuse Act, now enjoying a new lease on life.

Several public spirited persons have proved that this isn't just theory.

A housewife, Mrs. Gwen Zeichner, recently was awarded $12,500 for obtaining information that led to the conviction of the Transit-Mix Concrete Corporation for dumping cement wastes into New York's East River.

In Pittsburgh, the Pennsylvania Chemical Company was convicted of putting iron, aluminum, chlorides, sulphates and other material into the Monongahela River. For their work in the case two Pennsylvania State University instructors, David G. Nixon and Dr. John Zavodni were awarded $1666.66 each. Their investigations have led also to charges against three other corporations.

The Hudson River Fisherman's Association received $2000 last year for information that convicted the Penn Central Railroad of oil spillage.

The field for this sort of thing must be wide since it is estimated that as many as 100,000 discharges, legal and otherwise, are now being made into navigable waters. Pinning down the evidence of illegality isn't all that easy, but this two sets of guidelines are now available.

The most detailed one was framed by Nixon and Zavodni, whose address is the McKeesport, Pa., campus of Penn State. Another was put together by U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour, Jr., whose address is the U.S. courthouse in New York's Foley Square. The professors and the federal attorney have been sending out copies on request.

Drawing on these and other sources, here is a handy guide for pollution hunters.

HOW ABOUT THAT!

A large southern grasshopper is believed to have incorporated in its chemical defenses against ants some of the herbicides on which it feeds by chance.

The Kauai O'o, a bird believed to have been extinct for several years, has been located in a Hawaiian swamp by a government biologist using a helicopter.

Sea lampreys, which invaded the great lakes via the Welland canal, then destroyed the lake trout by bleeding them to death, are reported on the rise again.

A government scientist has concluded that dams built near active faults can cause earthquakes. For instance, there have been 10,000 quakes near the Hoover dam since it was built, as against none in the 15 previous years.

It has been discovered that a tiny beetle feeds on 5-year-old cones of the Sequoia, causes them to drop their seeds and thus plays an essential role in the life cycle of this "biggest" tree.

The 1899 Refuse Act, Title 33, United States Code, Section 407, prohibits the discharge or deposit of any refuse matter into navigable rivers, lakes and streams or their tributaries without a permit from the Army Corps of Engineers. Also it bars the deposit of such material on the bank of a waterway if it may be swept away by tides or storms.

For persons convicted of violating the law, it specifies imprisonment and/or fines of up to $2500 on each count, with half the fine going to an informant at the discretion of the court. Originally the Refuse Act was considered merely a means of preventing hazards to navigation, but a recent court decision held that it applies to pollution also. Thereupon the Army Engineers, responding to President Nixon's call for a water clean-up, issued new regulations this spring requiring that polluters qualify for permits under stricter rules.

It is important therefore to make sure whether a permit exists for the discharge on which you are zeroing in. The district office of the Army Engineers should be able to tell you. If there is a permit, determine its exact terms; perhaps they are being exceeded.

There's no use obtaining evidence on a discharge that can't be traced to the person responsible. Get the exact name and legal address of the corporation, partnership or individual. There must be proof that the owner or operator had control over the pollutant. Inspection of land deeds may help in this.

To pinpoint the discharge, get a large scale, 50-cent map of the area from the Geological Survey, 1200 South Eads Street, Arlington, Va. 22202, and/or a river navigation map, with mile marks on it, for $1 from the Army Engineers district office. By using a hand bearing compass, you can then locate three or four landmarks on the map in relation to the discharge.

Take color photographs of the discharge, of the stream area that it diffuses, and of any pertinent industrial facilities. Keep an exact record of the date, time, place, name of photographer, and identities of any persons shown in the photograph.

In obtaining samples, be careful because it can be a hazardous undertaking.

A sample should be taken in a clean bottle of the pollution itself, of the stream near the point of discharge, and of the water a short distance upstream. Seal each bottle with tape and label it as to place, time, date and person taking sample, who should initial it.

Have the samples analyzed promptly, by a competent chemist in a complete laboratory. The analysis should be according to the procedures recommended in "Standard Methods for the Examination of Water and Waste Water," published by American Water Works Association and Water Pollution Control Federation; and "Methods for Chemical Analysis of Water and Wastes," published by the U.S. Department of Interior.

There should be a breakdown of oil content, total suspended solids, turbidity, color, Ph, and special substances.

Each time a sample changes hands a record should be made of date and place, along with signatures of persons giving and receiving it.

Signed statements should be obtained if possible by witnesses to each pollution occurrence. Lacking that, get names and addresses.

Submit all the evidence as soon as complete to the U.S. attorney for the district in which the violation took place. It might be well to get in touch with him on the project before you're too deeply involved.

Let's say that you have done your work well, that the polluter is charged and fined, and that the court awards you half the amount. Also that you are a bit squeamish about accepting sludge money. Well, in that case, you can always donate it to some good conservation organization.

Investigating the discharge of effluents into the Monongahela River, David G. Nixon and John Zavodni paddle close to an outlet. Better be careful, they say; this sort of thing can be hazardous.

Opening lead: King of ♠
In going thru the bridge archives at the office the other day, I came across one of my favorite hands featuring a sparkling defensive play made by my late partner and very good friend, Helen Sobel Smith, who unquestionably earned her place in Bridge's Hall of Fame as one of the all-time greats.

Altho we were defending a rather innocuous contract of two hearts with the East-West hands, by defeating that contract one trick, Helen earned an excellent result for us in a National Championship Event where each deal is a separate contest and has an equal bearing on the final standings.

Helen opened the king of diamonds on which I began an echo with the East hand by playing the nine. She continued the ace and when my deuce appeared, she knew that I had started with a doubleton. The jack was continued and declarer realized that it would be useless to ruff low in dummy for I would overruff. If he trumped with the king, it would surely establish a heart trick for the defense, so he discarded a small club—which was a loser in any event. On the jack of diamonds, I discarded the jack of clubs.

Helen now paused to reflect. The high club signal indicated that she could expect to cash two more tricks in that suit with the ace and king. That would bring the total up to five. In order to develop a setting trick, it might be necessary to promote a winner in the trump suit. This can be accomplished only if East has the ten of hearts. If he does, this card can be put to effective use on a fourth round of diamonds. However, first it is necessary to cash out the defensive book.

In order to achieve her objective, West has to be on lead at the crucial moment. Helen, therefore, shifted to the nine of clubs at trick four. I played the king and returned the suit to her blank ace. The scene was now set for the knockout punch. Back came a fourth round of diamonds. A spade was sluffed from dummy and now the ten of hearts uppercut the declarer. South overruffed with the queen, but there was no way to prevent West from scoring the setting trick in hearts inasmuch as she still held the J-8-6.

Observe that if the two club tricks are not cashed before the fourth diamond is led, South is not obliged to overruff the ten of hearts. He can discard another club loser from dummy—trading trick for trick. Against Helen's defense, South was helpless.

Bear Lake Area News Notes

By PEGGY OSBORNE
Jim Yoder has been a patient in Corry Hospital as the result of a broken arm. He is now home.

The Beautification Committee met at the home of Miss Hildred Caldwell on Monday, Sept. 27. President Peggy Osborne presided. Discussion was held on the Bear Lake Community Fair. The committee heard a report that it had made a very good profit, and would sell the same way next year. It also discussed Christmas decorations in the town park for the upcoming Christmas holidays. It was also announced that Mrs. Gene Jukes had been in the Corry Hospital, and has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Carter of Washington, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Johnson of Lottsville visited their sister, Mrs. Fern Morton, and her family. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Haskins are parents of a son born Sept. 29 at Corry Hospital.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.
FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1971

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Get started on work, studies, whatever your obligations, as early as possible. No dallying or excuses—that's not like the REAL you.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—You, too, will have to start early, and maybe not quit till late. Be ready for changes. Don't make unnecessary ones, but accept those which are desirable.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Have faith in your objectives, confidence in your methods. Careful distribution of energies could lead to new gains.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Good lunar influences should stimulate your fine mind and assist you in even the most difficult of endeavors. Carry on with enough flair and assurance to instill confidence.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—These ask more care: Details, knowing the exact meaning of instructions and how to carry them out (don't be afraid to ask!) and cooperation with all.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Fine planetary influences now stimulate your abilities and desire for attainment. Put forth your best efforts during this propitious period.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Study reasons for existing limitations. Concentrate on significant issues without neglecting minor items. A good period for tackling jobs that require patience.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Fine deeds of the past could now bear fruit beyond expectations. This is the right period for progressive measures.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Pinpoint errors and misunderstandings likely to be repeated. Avoid same or they could become a habit. Make sure that you know exactly what is going on around you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Consider new methods and techniques, but don't reach beyond your capacities, a temptation now. Utilize advantages wisely; keep working toward your highest goals.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Uranus, favorable, indicates more room for expansion, which automatically means that brakes must be tested. Increased complexities will come with increased advantages.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Neptune's present position encourages harmony in all areas. Use old-fashioned horse sense in difficult matters. Gains indicated.

YOU BORN TODAY have a vibrant, warm personality, are gregarious by nature and extremely artistic in all that you do. You also have excellent judgment and your sense of balance (as symbolized by the scales of your Sign) would make you an eminent member of the judiciary. You could excel in any of the arts and are highly innovative in your methods. Many statesmen, adventurers, musicians, writers, specialists in medicine (particularly researchers), and inventors of the unique were born under Libra. You can give a novel twist to an old idea and make it freshly interesting. Birthdate of: Vladimir Horowitz, renowned pianist; Julie Andrews, actress.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

RAT CONTROL

Rats are loathsome creatures that ought to be eradicated. After all, we know how to eliminate them and have every reason to hate these pests. Rodents are useless, destructive and transmit disease.

Rats play an important role in the spread of plague. The casualties of all the wars are dwarfed by the mortality figures of this disease. In the 14th century, 49 million persons succumbed to the Black Plague. Although plague is no longer rampant it still occurs and looms as a threat so long as rats are plentiful. The few cases of plague reported recently in our country were traced to prairie dogs.

Rodents live and breed in filth. They carry all kinds of bacteria on their paws, in their fur and in their stomachs. Furthermore, they are constantly biting humans, especially defenseless babies. Physicians in every large city are frequently called to treat rat-bite victims.

These critters destroy millions of dollars in property and eat enough to feed a good-sized nation. Anything we can do to avoid such destructiveness is worthy of consideration.

Rat-proofing homes, factories, barns and places where garbage is disposed of does more to eliminate rats than anything else. Having no food, the rats must leave or resort to cannibalism. A rat-proof cellar, for example, must have a concrete floor, masonry walls, and close-fitting windows and doors. Drains require a narrow slotted protective cover and the openings where pipes enter or leave must be sealed. Never store garbage outdoors unless the containers are tightly covered and made of metal or concrete.

Rat proofing is usually followed by trapping or poisoning the remaining rodents. This, however, should be done by experts.

TOMORROW: Measuring Fitness.

RED BUMPS

A reader writes: Several weeks ago, red bumps appeared on my legs. The condition was diagnosed by my physician as erythema nodosum. I'm sure he would have gone into more detail had I asked, but I didn't want him to think I was dumb. So, foolish me, I didn't ask him any questions. What is this condition and can I expect to be cured?

REPLY

This is a poorly understood disease, and I am sure your physician is happy that you never questioned him about it. It is, however, rarely serious. For additional information send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

CRUTCHES AFTER SURGERY

A reader writes: My daughter was born with spina bifida. She is 10 years old and has two dislocated hips and also trouble with her kidneys and bladder. Do you think surgery will help her to walk without braces and crutches?

REPLY

Possibly, but at this stage the surgeon who does the operation is better able to tell you whether or not she will need crutches or braces.

DILUTING BEER OR SODA

A reader writes: Is it true that diluting beer or soda pop with water can be harmful?

REPLY

No. If anything, dilution may delay the absorption of the alcohol in beer. Regardless of this possibility, both will dilute after they reach the stomach.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Washington of 602 Edgewood Dr. were honored guests for a surprise cocktail and dinner party last Saturday evening in celebration of their twentieth wedding anniversary. The affair was hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Keith C. Forsgren of Voorheesville, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Monroe, Baltimore, Md., Miss Jane G. Washington from Poultney, Vt., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall and Henry N. Monroe of Warren. Guests were present from Dunkirk, Albany, and Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lundberg, 408 East St., enjoyed a golfing trip last weekend when they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zydonik at Barien Country Club, which is located about four miles from Attica, N. Y. Mr. Zydonik, formerly of Warren, is presently the golf pro at Barien.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gidders, 120 Oak St., spent a recent weekend in Arlington and Alexandria, Va., visiting their daughter, Joyce, and son, Dennis, who are employed in Washington, D. C. The Gidders' also toured the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

Mrs. John Servidio of 535 Buchanan St., has returned from a 45 days' stay with relatives in her home town of S'Agata D'Esaro in the province of Cosenza, Italy. This was Mrs. Servidio's first trip back since leaving her homeland 42 years ago. We understand she was able to do some sight-seeing in Rome and that she enjoyed her flights on the Alitalia 747.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You goofed—and I hope you'll be big enough to admit it. I refer to your shamefully inadequate response to the mother who signed herself "Ill In Illinois." I was ill in Indiana when I read it.

The mother was writing about her handsome, talented, 21-year-old, homosexual son. She wanted to know how she could help him lead a normal life. Your advice was for the MOTHER to get counseling and learn to live with the situation which you described as "probably irreversible." Your last line, that she was probably a lot happier than the boy, was strange, to put it mildly. How did you reach THAT conclusion? Did an assistant write that answer? It didn't sound like you, Ann Landers. Please review the letter and try it again.—MARION, IND.

DEAR MARION: You're right that I goofed, but the buck stops here. Every word that appears under my byline is written by me, and I'm responsible for it.

The advice you question was, I agree, inadequate. I have no defense but I do have an explanation. I sometimes must cut a letter in order to use it in the column. In this instance, I cut the letter so drastically that some vital facts were deleted. In the original letter, the mother described the boy's accomplishments. He was creative, outgoing, related well to members of both sexes, did beautifully in school and was headed for a promising career. He told his parents he was a homosexual and made it clear that he was perfectly content and did not want professional help. The mother, on the other hand, was so grieved about his deviation that she was becoming bedridden. I told her not to press therapy on a boy who didn't want it, but to get some therapy herself, so she could learn to accept him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our youngest daughter went steady for two years with a smart alec punk who didn't know enough to stand up when speaking to an adult. We never liked the boy and she knew it. To make a long story short, he got Neva pregnant and then tried to lie his way out of it.

I could fill your whole page with stories about what we went through with our daughter. To complicate matters Neva really did care about that creepy kid. We had a terrible time convincing her that she should not keep the baby. It tore my heart out to watch that girl sit by the phone, waiting for a call. And then when her father had to drive her to the hospital to have the baby I thought to myself, what's the matter with the laws in this country? How come the boy who got her that way is nowhere around? Is it fair that a 16-year-old girl, who was a virgin when she met the dirty dog, has to carry the burden alone while he runs off with his buddies to ballgames and dates other girls?

Please, Ann Landers, do what you can to get a law passed saying the boy has to marry the girl when a pregnancy is involved. You would be performing a great service.—WICHITA HEARTACHE

DEAR W.H.: A great service? For whom? Do you have any idea what the divorce rate in this country is among people who get married WILLINGLY? Why wish a bum like that on your daughter? She is far better off without him. Good riddance.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll make it short and sweet. My husband (age 42), father of four children (oldest 15, youngest 6), has been cheating on me for the last ten years. I have caught him red-handed, flat-footed—every which way. He always says he is sorry, takes an oath on his mother's life, swears on his father's grave, and tells me it will never happen again—but it always does. I left him once for three weeks but it didn't change things.

At present the rat is making cow eyes at the new woman behind the checkout counter in the supermarket. Yesterday he told me he'd to the marketing and I could stay home and "take it easy." Tell me straight out if I should leave him once and for all or stick it out for the sake of the children? I need your advice.—MRS. DONALD JUAN

DEAR MRS. JUAN: Tell ME straight out, would life be better with him or without him? You've had it both ways so you're in a position to judge. Only you know the answer to this one and I say your decision should be based on what's best for you and the children and not on your need to punish the rat with cow's eyes.

Bridegroom's Mother Makes Gown For Jespersen-Johnson Nuptials

Norma Jean Johnson stood before an altar decorated with baskets of brown and gold fall flowers when she became the bride of Larry K. Jespersen.

The double ring ceremony was held September 11, 1971 at 1 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church, Warren, with the Rev. Jack E. Spencer officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Johnson, 110 Franklin st., Warren and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jespersen, Russell.

The bride was dressed in a white bridal satin gown, made by the bridegroom's mother, which featured a stand-up collar, empire waist with an A-line skirt. The full length bodice and wrists of the gown were trimmed in galloon lace.

Her veil was tiers of silk illusion and caught to a crown of organdy petals. The new Mrs. Jespersen carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Elaine McDunn, Warren, a cousin of the bride, was chosen as matron of honor. She was dressed in a gown made by her husband, and featuring a rounded neckline, empire waist and long, tapered sleeves trimmed with embroidered lace. The gown was fashioned of pink bridal satin, and the matron-of-honor wore a matching crown headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Peter G. Laurie, Rhode Island, was the best man. Donald Johnson, brother of the bride, and David Smith served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Johnson chose a rose crepe dress with crocheted sleeves, with matching shoes and purse. The bridegroom's mother wore a mint green knit dress with matching accessories. Each mother wore a corsage of yellow baby roses.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY K. JESPERSEN

A reception was held at the church after the ceremony for pants suit. Since their return, the couple are residing at 205 East street, Warren.

The bride is a graduate of Warren High School and is employed at New Process Company. The bridegroom, a graduate of Eisenhower High School, served four years with the U. S. Air Force and is now employed by National Forge.

Pre-nuptial showers were hosted by Mrs. Elaine McDunn; and Mrs. Connie Jespersen and Mrs. Olie Gustossan. A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents.

Wedding In Arizona

Judith Anna Johanson became the bride of Douglas Earl Day Saturday, Sept. 18, 1971 in St. Cyrils Catholic Church, Tucson, Arizona, in a double ring ceremony held at 3 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Johanson, Tucson, Arizona and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Johanson, 22 Brook street, Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Day, Portsmouth, Virginia are the parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Chris Foster, Tucson, was chosen as maid of honor. Other attendants were Miss Dannie Pierce and Miss Debbie Jones, also of Tucson.

Larry Kuykendall, Tucson, served as best man. Ushers were Joe Vettarel, Tucson, and Thomas Johanson, brother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Catalina High School, Tucson. The bridegroom was graduated from Cradack High School, Portsmouth, Virginia, and is stationed at Davis-Monthon Air Force Base, Tucson.

The couple will reside at 832 North Richey blvd., Tucson.

Jaycettes Meet

The Warren Jaycettes held their September meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 22, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Starr on Yankee Bush rd. Guest speaker was Mrs. Allen Phillips who demonstrated cosmetics.

Three members of the local chapter went to Bradford on Sept. 20 to attend the Bradford Jaycee Wives meeting. They were: Mrs. Joseph Leta, Mrs. Nick Petchel and Mrs. Edward Standley.

On Oct. 9 the Jaycettes will go to Cory to attend the area fall board meeting of the Pennsylvania J-Ettes hosted by the Cory Jay-Ettes.

During the past several months the Jaycettes conducted their annual baby photo contest, had a garage sale, and made and sold sloppy joe sandwiches at the soap box derby. The group has been selling unusual candles and made crocheted jewelry which they sold at the Sidewalk Festival. They assisted the Jaycees with Apple Butter Sunday, served the soap box derby dinner and manned concession booths over the July 4th celebrations. They are presently taking phone orders for the Jaycee disposal bag sales.

They are planning a Halloween party for Oct. 31 and co-chairmen are Mrs. Allen Phillips and Mrs. George Means. A progressive dinner is planned for November with co-chairmen Mrs. Gary Marcy and Mrs. Ross Kremer.

New member Mrs. Allen Phillips was installed by president Mrs. Nick Petchel.

Breakfast Briefs

Starbrick Home Extension Group will meet Tuesday, Oct. 5, at the home of Mrs. James Stockhill at 11 a.m. There will be a Turkish crochet demonstration and those interested should bring yarn and needles. Members from other clubs are welcome to attend.

Lander Preschool mothers are reminded they are to meet at Mr. Donut in Warren Monday, Oct. 4. Members are to meet at Lander School at 7:30 p.m.

The first area-wide church music workshop is to be held for the churches of Northwest Pennsylvania Oct. 8 and 9 at the First Baptist Church, Franklin. The program is to include the rehearsal and presentation of John W. Peterson's cantata, "The Sound of Singing." Those who wish to participate should write Peterson Workshop, First Baptist Church, 1041 Liberty st., Franklin. Cost is $1.50 for cantata book.

Dr. Tracey K. Jones, general secretary of the Board of Missions of the United Methodist Church, is to address the annual meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the United Methodist Western Pennsylvania Conference, Oct. 14, at Christ United Methodist Church, Bethel Park.

Dr. William Cashman is to show slides of his recent trip to Russia at the October meeting of the Woman's Guild of the Emanuel United Church of Christ. Guests at the meeting are to be members of the Ridgway Faith Church and the Columbus United Church of Christ. The meeting begins at 8 p.m. Oct. 4.

Frewsburg Bridge Club is to begin duplicate bridge games Sunday evenings at 7 p.m. at Our Lady of Victory Church Hall, Frewsburg, N. Y. All duplicate players, and any bridge players wishing to learn duplicate play are welcome. The games are sanctioned by the American Contract Bridge League, and rating points are to be awarded winners. The first game is to be Oct. 3.

Married 25 Years

MR. AND MRS. DALE L. GRADY

The Silver Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dale L. Grady of 175 Marsh ave., Youngville, was celebrated by family and friends at the Pittsfield Community House on Sunday, September 26.

Dale L. Grady and Louella Arnold were married by the Rev. E. W. Chitester of Youngville First Methodist Church on October 26, 1946. The anniversary observance was held early so that the Grady's eldest son, Dennis, could attend while on leave from the U. S. Army.

Dennis and his wife, MyAnh, and two brothers, Boyd and Norman, were hosts for the affair.

Mrs. Grady's brother, Earl Arnold, Jr., who was best man in the original wedding party, and Mrs. Chester (Laura) Grady Wroblewski, Mr. Grady's sister, who was the bridesmaid, again attended the honored couple on Sunday.

Mrs. Grady wore a brown, white and black striped knit ensemble and Mrs. Wroblewski wore black velvet. Both had corsages of white rosebuds.

Aides included Mrs. Donald G. (Wanda Arnold) McNitt, Shirley Grady, Mrs. Earl Arnold, Jr., LouAnn Arnold and Mrs. Joyce Richards.

Guests attended from New Kensington, Revlock, Ridgway, Windber, Nantyglo, Warren, Youngsville and Pittsfield, Pa.

The next meeting will be a County Federation meeting, to be held Monday, Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. at the Bethany Lutheran Church. Speakers for the evening will be the Pennsylvania State Treasurer, Mrs. Elliott and the Northwestern District President, Mrs. Ralph Moss. Host club for the evening will be the Junior Woman's Club.

Sale To Benefit Medical Center

ITEMS NEEDED FOR SALE

Sandy Harris is shown pointing out one of the signs in Sheffield which indicate the time, place and items needed for the Household Sale, to be held to benefit the Sheffield Area Medical Center on Oct. 7, 8 and 9. Anyone in Sheffield who has any household articles, antiques, toys and other miscellaneous items should donate them to the sale, which will help our Medical Center, where there are many expenses yet to be met. A Bake Sale will be held at the same time, with proceeds to go to the Center.

AROUND SHEFFIELD

Gypsy Moths Sighted

By Larry Stotz

A gypsy moth was reported to have been found in the Hearts Content area this summer. The probable carrier of this destructive insect into our bailiwick was a camping trailer that had traveled through one of the heavily infested gypsy moth areas in eastern Pennsylvania.

The first week in July is one of the heaviest periods of recreational use of the forests in Pennsylvania. And it coincides with the period when all four stages of this defoliator—mature larvae, pupae, adult moths, and newly laid eggs—can be found in infested areas.

Thus, the recreationist on the move can become the unwitting carrier of this destructive insect into new territory hundreds of miles from previously infested areas. In 1969, a single male gypsy moth was trapped on the Skyline Drive in the Shenandoah National Park. This was the first time that this pest had been found in the Park. The nearest known gypsy moth infestation was too far away for the moth to have flown to Shenandoah National Park. It was felt that it had "hitchhiked" into Virginia on a camping trailer.

The gypsy moth became a potential menace to our forests as far back as 1869 when a Medford, Massachusetts scientist imported gypsy moth egg clusters from France. His intentions were honorable. His grand scheme was to cross gypsy moths with silk worm moths, and thus develop a hardy silk-producing insect that would make this country competitive with the Orient in the production of silk.

During his experiments, some of the moths escaped from his laboratory. It wasn't until 20 years later that their descendants had multiplied enough to attract public attention. By then, 360 square miles were overrun by this defoliator. Within another 5 years the infested area had increased to 2,200 square miles.

By 1949, the Federal Government and certain eastern states had spent 65 million dollars trying to eradicate the gypsy moth. What appeared to be the most effective weapon against the insect was DDT, sprayed by airplane on forested areas. Now, DDT has been outlawed in most states because the "cure is worse than the disease." Carbaryl is now being used in place of DDT. It breaks down more quickly than DDT and is low in toxicity to humans, birds, other warm-blooded animals, and fish. But it is less effective than DDT in the war against the gypsy moth.

Despite massive attacks to control the gypsy moth, the little insect goes merrily on its way. Today, colonies of this pest can be found on more than 40 million acres in the Northeastern States. During 1970 alone, gypsy moth defoliation covered nearly 800,000 acres of woodlands in 8 Northeastern States, including Pennsylvania.

Gypsy moth caterpillars have voracious appetites. They strip the leaves from forest, shade, and fruit trees. They may also attack ornamental shrubs. The favored host trees for the caterpillars are oak, birch, basswood, and willow. The caterpillars also attack conifers, such as white pine, hemlock, and spruce. But they do this only after first feeding on one of their favored hosts. A single defoliation has been known to kill white pines, hemlock, and spruce. Two defoliations can kill some hardwoods.

If you are worried now about gypsy moths landing in Sheffield and eating the leaves of your favorite shade tree, relax. They will probably never get here. But it's a good idea to learn to recognize the critters during the 4 stages of their life cycle.

There's no use in my trying to tell, in so many words, what the caterpillar, the pupa, the egg masses, or the adult moths (he and she) look like. Although I would like to point out that the female moth is too fat to fly. She never joined "Weight Watchers."

Norman Koller, at the Sheffield Ranger Station, has colored pictures of the insect in its various stages portrayed in handout material. And an excellent paper, entitled "The Gypsy Moth on Home Grounds" can be obtained from the Cooperative Extension Service, at the Warren Court House. It contains information on control methods for isolated, individual shade trees. Black and white photos show the caterpillar, pupa, egg masses, and the adult moth.

the children attended a movie in the Art room. The next meeting of the Home-School Council will be held on Oct. 26 during American Education Week.

Mrs. Norman Abbott has returned home from the Jamestown W.C.A. hospital where she has been a surgical patient for ten days. Miss Beverly Abbott has returned to Penn State University to resume her graduate work.

Donations are needed by a group of Sheffield women who are holding a Household Sale on Oct. 7, 8 and 9 in the old Peterson Store building. Alvera Harris, Irene Haser, Ruth Bennett and Clara Lee are combining their efforts to help the Sheffield Area Medical Center. All these ladies are interested in antiques and household sales and there is sure to be a large sale.

Some Warren merchants have already donated new articles for resale. It is hoped that Sheffield businesses who have items to donate will also participate. Items needed are household articles, dishes, baby items, toys, electrical appliances, etc. A Bake Sale will also be held in conjunction with the sale. Persons wishing to make a contribution to the Medical Center can help by bringing baked goods.

For all residents of Sheffield who want to be a part of this project and have items to be picked up, please contact the following: Alvera Harris at 968-3896; Irene Haser at 968-5697; Ruth Bennett at 968-3844; or Clara Lee at 968-5573.

Garden Club Has Meeting

The Sheffield Garden Club met Wednesday, Sept. 15 at the home of Mrs. Letitia Hover in Barnes. There were 14 members present and one guest, Mrs. Ione Giffin of Ellwood City.

During the business meeting, presided over by the retiring president, Mrs. Hover, it was decided that the tree in the Loop be removed by the township. A donation to the Civic Association will be made for the use of the booth at the Johnny Appleseed Festival. The new officers were then installed.

Roll call was answered by naming a favorite quilt pattern. After adjournment the hostess showed 22 quilts made by her mother, sister and herself.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Marie Loomis and Mrs. Marjorie Johnson.

We have examined the financial documents and accounting records of the Warren County School District as of June 30, 1971. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as were required by law or we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the balance sheet of all the funds and related statement of General Fund operations present fairly the financial position of the Warren County School District as of June 30, 1971, and the results of its recorded operations for the period then ended, in conformity with the principles and procedures established in the manual of accounting and related financial procedures for Pennsylvania school systems applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding fiscal year.

Sugar Grove News

By Martha Warner

The Hill and Dale Garden Club met at the First United Presbyterian Church for its September meeting with twenty-two members and two guests, Mrs. Richard Hensler, Buffalo and Mrs. Emil Erickson of the Warren Russell Road. Mrs. Robert Morgan presided at the meeting. Mrs. Elmer Swanson conducted devotions. A paper on chrysanthemums was given by Mrs. Sherman Bisson. Reports on the recent Flower Show prepared by Mrs. Sharp, chairman, also by others, including the report of the treasurer Mrs. Robert Scholl were given. Members voted to place a book in the United Methodist Church library at Russell for a former member. Mrs. Clifford Maze was received as a new member. Mrs. LaVerne DeVore, incoming president, announced the standing committees for the coming year and members voted to continue a book committee to arrange for members to obtain books from Sugar Grove Free Library at the meetings.

Members also voted to have a guest speaker at the October meeting which will be an open meeting to the public.

The meeting closed with a general discussion of plans for the new year. Hostesses were Mrs. Donald Barrett, Mrs. Conrad Youngberg, Mrs. Ralph Abbott and Mrs. Janet Sweeney.

The Sugar Grove Home-School Council held a Fair Exhibit at the recent meeting held at the Elementary School. Interested parents and friends viewed the Fair Exhibits which had been previously judged by Mrs. Alfred Grant, Mrs. Paul Carlberg and Mrs. LaVerne DeVore. 1st prize winners were for Collection: Shells, Kurt Thorpe; Cars, Randy Spelling. Coins: Dick Jennings; Plates of Sates: Laurie Chase; Hand Crafts: Julie Easton; Art Work: Wesley Wright and Pat Campbell; Models: Tracy Thompson; Model Building: Brad Carlson; Antique Bottles: Lori Tut-maher; Gun Replicas: Scott Burch; Preserves: Delores Fischer. The Grand prize was awarded to LeRoy VanTassel for his Nature Display.

Following room visitation and the Fair Exhibit a meeting was held in the auditorium with Mr. Charles Skelton presiding. Devotions were read by Mr. Edwin Young and the secretaries and treasurers reports were given. Mr. Skelton gave a brief resume of the coming years programs. Mrs. Gordon's room was awarded the Attendance Banner for the month.

The group voted to purchase a new flag for the Auditorium and a discussion on the repairing of the playground equipment followed. Parents are urged to sign up for Membership registration at the beginning of each meeting at the Registration desk.

During the meeting on Auction was held to sell the baked goods that had been brought for the Fair.

During the Business meeting

Rebekah Lodge Elects Officers

Lady Harriet Rebekah Lodge 206 met on Wednesday, Sept. 22 at which time election of officers was held. The following were elected: Mrs. Harry J. ORDINANCE

NO. 989

AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE BOROUGH OF WARREN TO ENTER INTO A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT CONCERNING FIREMEN OF WARREN BOROUGH

The Mayor and Town Council of the Borough of Warren hereby enacts and ordains as follows:

SECTION 1. That the Borough of Warren enter into the collective bargaining agreement concerning the firemen of Warren Borough as hereinafter set forth in this Section 1.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT made this 27th day of September, 1971 between Local Union 1835, International Association of Fire Fighters, of Warren, Pennsylvania, party of the first part (Local Union 1835)

AND

The Mayor and Town Council of the Borough of Warren, a municipal corporation, party of the second part (Borough).

RECITALS

ONE. Local Union 1835 representing over more than fifty per cent (50%) of the Warren Fire Department personnel informed Borough through its President, Thomas Haines, that Local Union 1835 under the provisions of Act 111, adopted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on June 24, 1968, wished to enter into collective bargaining with Borough concerning terms and conditions of employment including wages, hours and other benefits.

TWO. The Town Council of the Borough of Warren designated (See Resolution of June 1971) Frank J. Strange, Borough Manager, David Winans, Borough Councilman and Jack Donaldson, as Borough's representatives and Local Union 1835 designated Frank Viola, Roger Siggins and Thomas Haines as the representatives of Local Union 1835 to bargain collectively concerning items requested by Local Union 1835.

THREE. Collective bargaining was entered into between representatives of Local Union 1835 and representatives of Borough and the agreement they have arrived at is hereinafter set forth.

NOW, THEREFORE, intending to be legally bound hereby it is mutually agreed between the parties hereto as follows:

SECTION ONE. Effective Date and Duration of Agreement.

The agreement shall become effective January 1, 1972 and remain in effect until December 31, 1973.

SECTION TWO. Union Recognition.

Local Union 1835 of the International Association of Fire Fighters is recognized by Borough as the sole collective bargaining agency for the personnel of the Warren Fire Department during and for the force of this contract.

SECTION THREE. Union Dues Deductions.

Borough will make deductions from the pay of each fire fighter for his union dues in accordance with authorization received from each fire fighter. Union shall hold Borough harmless and shall return to Borough any deductions authorized but improperly made. Union will return any such improperly made deductions to Borough.

SECTION FOUR. Union Meetings and Bulletin Board.

Union may have a bulletin board in each fire station for the explicit use of the union. The union may hold one regular business meeting per month at the Central Fire Station. The meeting shall be held during evening hours and shall not interfere with the operations of the Fire Department.

SECTION FIVE. Hours of Work.

The hours to be worked by each fire fighter shall be as hereinafter set forth. Fire fighters shall work 56 hour schedule during a work week averaging 56 hours per week. This schedule shall consist of working 24 hours on duty and then having 48 hours off duty.

SECTION SIX. Positions and Salary Scales.

A. Positions. By virtue of Warren Borough Fire Department Regulations of 1971 (Regulations) adopted by Warren Borough Council, Council on September 27, 1971 the following positions pertinent to this agreement were established: Captain, Lieutenant, Mechanic, Fire Fighter-Mechanic (FFM), Fire Fighter-Class A (FFA), Fire Fighter-Class B (FFB), Fire Fighter-Class C (FFC), Fire Fighter-Class D (FFD), and Fire Fighter-Probationary (FFP).

1. The classification of Mechanic shall cease upon the termination of employment of the present holder of this position.

2. The positions of Lieutenant and Fire Fighter-Mechanic are new positions in the Warren Borough Fire Department. To become eligible for promotion to the position of Lieutenant a fire fighter must have five (5) years of continuous service in the Department. To become eligible for promotion to the position of Fire Fighter-Mechanic a fire fighter must have thirty-six (36) months of continuous service in the Department. The number of persons in each of these two classifications shall be as determined from time to time by Council.

3. The position of Fire Fighter-Class A (FFA) is a new position in the Department. To become eligible for promotion to this position a fire fighter must have twenty-four (24) months of continuous service in the Department. Upon completion of the 24 months required service he is then eligible to apply for promotion to this position and upon receipt of his request Council shall request the Civil Service Commission to examine him for this position. The number of persons eligible for this position shall be unlimited. Any eligible member of the Department who shall pass the Civil Service Commission examination for this position shall be promoted to this classification. If an eligible fire fighter applies for examination for promotion to this position within thirty (30) days of his eligibility date and passes the examination his date of rank shall be his eligibility date. If an eligible fire fighter applies for examination for promotion to this position more than thirty (30) days from his eligibility date and passes the examination his date of rank shall be the date of his examination. If a fire fighter fails to pass the examination for promotion to this position for the first time he shall be eligible to make successive applications for promotion to this position with each application to be not less than six (6) months from the date of his last application. Upon the applicant passing a later examination for promotion to this position his date of rank shall be the date of his examination.

4. All persons holding the position of Driver as of the effective day of this contract shall be classified as Fire Fighter-Class B. To become eligible for promotion to this position a fire fighter must have twelve (12) months of continuous service in the Department. Upon completion of the twelve (12) months required service he is then eligible to apply for promotion to this position and upon receipt of his request Council shall request the Civil Service Commission to examine him for this position. The number of persons eligible for this position shall be unlimited. Any eligible member of the Department who shall pass the Civil Service Commission examination for this position shall be promoted to this classification. If an eligible fire fighter applies for examination for promotion to this position within thirty (30) days of his eligibility date and passes the examination his date of rank shall be his eligibility date. If an eligible fire fighter applies for examination for promotion to this position more than thirty (30) days from his eligibility date and passes the examination his date of rank shall be the date of his examination. If a fire fighter fails to pass the examination for promotion to this position for the first time he shall be eligible to make successive applications for promotion to this position with each application to be not less than six (6) months from the date of his last application. Upon the applicant passing a later examination for promotion to this position his date of rank shall be the date of his examination.

(5) All persons holding the position of Hoseman with one (1) year of service at the effective date of this contract shall be classified as Fire Fighter-Class C.

(6) All persons holding the position of Hoseman with service of six (6) months but less than a year at the effective date of this contract shall be classified as Fire Fighter-Class D.

(7) All persons holding the position of Probationary Hoseman at the effective date of this contract shall be classified as Fire Fighter-Probationary.

B. Salary Scales. During the term of this agreement the following salary scales and provisions shall be in effect:

Salary Per Annum - (Base Annual Salary).

	1972	1973
Captain	$8682	$9116
Lieutenant	8488	8912
Fire Fighter-Mechanic (FFM)	8298	8713
Fire Fighter-Class A (FFA)	8056	8458
Fire Fighter-Class B (FFB)	7923	8319
Fire Fighter-Class C (FFC)	7498	7873
Fire Fighter-Class D (FFD)	6947	7294
Fire Fighter-Probationary (FFP)	6615	6945

C. Longevity. When a fire fighter in the classifications set forth in paragraph B above has completed two (2) years of continuous service in the Department he shall be eligible to receive longevity pay as follows:

(1) Beginning with the pay period next following the date when a fire fighter has completed twenty-four (24) months of continuous service he shall receive in addition to his base annual salary four tenths (4/10th) of one per cent (1%) times his base annual salary.

(2) Beginning with the calendar year following the one in which a fire fighter completed twenty-four (24) months of continuous service and the beginning of each calendar year thereafter an additional four tenths (4/10th) of one per cent (1%) of a fire fighters base annual salary shall be added to a fire fighters base annual salary.

(3) Such additional longevity compensation shall continue until the total of longevity percentage reaches a maximum of 7.2% which shall be reached when a fire fighter has completed eighteen (18) years of continuous service from the date when longevity was first added to his base annual salary as provided for in subparagraph 1 of this paragraph C of Section Six.

D. Special Provisions With Regard to Mechanic. The present mechanic for the Fire Department is George Croft. He shall be paid on the above set wage scale but his hours of work shall be 40 hours per week in accordance with a work schedule assigned to him by Management. He shall also be compensated for overtime at the rate of 1 1/2 times his hourly rate and his hourly rate shall be figured on the basis of his working 2080 hours per year. Upon termination of the employment of George Croft as mechanic the provisions of this agreement with regard to the position of mechanic shall terminate.

SECTION SEVEN: Callback Duty.

A. When any fire fighter who is off duty as a result of regular scheduled vacation or compensatory time off is called by the Fire Chief or other authorized Fire Department officer to report for duty at a fire or other emergency situation involving the Fire Department he shall be paid at the rate of $4.25 for each hour or part thereof in the performance of such duties. The minimum number of hours for callback duty for which a fire fighter shall be compensated shall be four (4) hours.

B. When any fire fighter works a tour of duty which is a 24 hour working period, or a portion thereof for which he is not regularly scheduled to work, he shall be compensated at the rate of $4.25 per hour. A portion of a tour of duty shall have a minimum of eight (8) hours and a maximum of fourteen (14) hours.

SECTION EIGHT. Grievance Procedure.

The following grievance procedure shall be followed:

Should any question arise regarding any fire fighter under the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement between the Borough and the fire fighters, such question will be considered as a grievance. Other items to be considered as a grievance of a fire fighter shall be: Improper working conditions, matters affecting the health or safety of fire fighters and other items of working conditions of fire fighters. When a grievance is considered to exist the following steps shall be followed:

(1) The grievance shall be submitted in writing through an appropriate representative of the Union, to the Fire Chief and a copy to the Borough Manager. It shall set forth the reasons for which the grievance is being submitted. A copy of grievances concerning officers of the Department shall also be forwarded to such officer.

(2) The Chief shall arrange to meet with the aggrieved and Union representative within 72 hours from receipt of such grievance. If it is not resolved within 72 hours after such meeting the Borough Manager shall be so informed in writing.

(3) Upon receipt of such notice of impasse on such a grievance by the Borough Manager he shall arrange to meet with all parties concerned within 72 hours from the receipt of such notice. If the matter is not resolved by such meeting with the Borough Manager within 72 hours following such meetings the Borough Manager shall submit it to the Public Safety Committee of the Town Council of the Borough of Warren in writing.

(4) The Public Safety Committee, after receipt of such notice of grievance from the Borough Manager, shall arrange to meet with the parties concerned within five (5) days from receipt of such notice. If after 10 days from the date of such meeting with the Public Safety Committee the grievance cannot be resolved, then the grievance shall be referred to the entire Council.

(5) The entire Council in either regular or special session assembly shall hear all matters in connection with the grievance. Council shall hear the grievance within 30 days after impasse has been reached before the Public Safety Committee.

(6) If Council cannot resolve the issue within the 30 days as provided in sub-paragraph (5) above, the matter shall be referred to an arbitrator furnished by the American Arbitration Association. The decision of the arbitrator shall be final and binding on all parties. The cost of the arbitrator shall be shared equally by Local Union 1835 and the Borough.

SECTION NINE. Insurance.

A. The Borough will provide fire fighters the equivalent Blue Cross and Blue Shield benefits as are presently provided by the Borough's agreement with Blue Cross-Blue Shield Association of Western Pennsylvania.

B. The Borough shall provide Life Insurance coverage for each fire fighter in the amount of $10,000 with double indemnity for accidental death.

SECTION TEN. Sick Leave.

All fire fighters shall be entitled to 14 days of sick leave for each continuous month of service accumulated for a period of 60 months and not to exceed 75 days. Sick leave shall begin on the day on which a fire fighter reports off as sick by contacting the Chief of the Fire Department or the Senior Officer in charge. Each fire fighter who is absent for three or more working days shall, upon his return to work, furnish the Fire Chief with a doctor's certificate evidencing his illness and stating that the fire fighter is fit for full return to duty. When any period of illness includes a day or days on which a fire fighter is not scheduled to work each such non-working day shall not be counted as a sick leave day. Each fire fighter using earned sick leave shall be considered to be continuously employed. Accumulated sick leave standing to the credit of each fire fighter at the effective date of this agreement shall be credited to the sick leave account of each fire fighter. After January 1, 1972 sick leave shall be calculated in accordance with the schedule set forth herein. Sick leave records for each fire fighter shall be kept and maintained in duplicate by the Borough with one record being kept in the office of the Fire Chief and the other record being kept in the office of the Borough Secretary.

13. Legal Notices

SECTION ELEVEN. Holidays.

A. Beginning January 1, 1972 each fire fighter after six (6) months of continuous service shall be granted the following paid holidays:

New Years Day	Independence Day
Washington's Birthday	Labor Day
Good Friday	Veteran's Day
Memorial Day	Thanksgiving Day
	Christmas Day

Whenever such holiday occurs on a Sunday the following Monday shall be observed as the holiday.

B. In lieu of such holidays a fire fighter may take compensatory time off and may only accumulate and take three days off as compensatory time off for holidays. Such compensatory time off for holidays must be taken within 90 days from the date of the third (3rd) accumulated holidays.

C. A fire fighter may, at his discretion, be paid for such holidays instead of taking the compensatory time off. A day's pay shall be computed by dividing the annual base salary by 2912 (for hourly rate) and multiplying by 24 (for 24 hour tour of duty).

SECTION TWELVE. Death in Family.

Each fire fighter shall be granted three days off with pay in the event of death of a member of the immediate family. A member of the immediate family shall be defined to include only the following persons: Parent, spouse, child, brother or sister, parents-in-law, grandchildren and grandparents. Such time off shall begin the day following date of death and must be three consecutive calendar days. Each fire fighter shall be granted one full day off with pay for the purpose of attending the funeral of an aunt, uncle, nephew, niece, sister-in-law, and brother-in-law, provided, however, that the day off provided for in this sentence requires attendance by the fire fighter at the funeral of such deceased relative.

SECTION THIRTEEN. VACATIONS.

All fire fighters shall be entitled to vacation with full pay in accordance with the following provisions:

After 12 months of continuous service -- 5 working days.
After 24 months of continuous service -- 10 working days.
After 120 months of continuous service -- 15 working days.

Such vacation shall be in accordance with a vacation schedule approved by the Fire Chief or Borough Manager or both. In emergencies, if it is impossible for a fire fighter to take time off for vacation within a calendar year the Fire Chief may authorize, if a fire fighter so desires, that the fire fighter be paid a day's pay in lieu of each day of vacation days that he was entitled to for that calendar year. A day's pay is hereby computed by dividing his annual base salary by 2912 and multiplying by 24.

SECTION FOURTEEN. PENSION PLAN.

The Borough has under consideration the matter of establishing a pension plan for fire fighters in conjunction with the Gordon Club pension plan. The Borough and the Gordon Club will continue to seriously consider such a pension plan during 1972 in order to have the matter resolved in 1972.

SECTION FIFTEEN. RESIDENCE.

A. All fire fighters who are employed after the effective date of this agreement must within a period of one (1) year from the date of their employment maintain a permanent address at a location within a radius of six (6) miles as measured from the Warren Municipal Building as is shown on the "Official Map of the Warren Borough Civil Service Commission", a copy of which is on file in the office of the Borough Secretary.

B. Fire fighters who as of January 1, 1972 live at a location beyond the six (6) mile radius, may continue to live in such location providing that any relocation or change in their place of residence in the future must be a location within such six (6) mile radius. Any question which may arise with regard to this Section may be reviewed by the Warren Borough Civil Service Commission whose decision shall be final.

SECTION SIXTEEN. This agreement is subject to such application as the President's Executive Order on Stabilization (affecting salaries and wages) may have on it, which Order was based on the authority vested in the President by the Constitution and Statutes of the United States, including the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970 (P.L. 91-379, 84 Stat. 799), as amended.

SECTION SEVENTEEN. MISCELLANEOUS.

A. All employment benefits presently enjoyed by fire fighters such as uniform allowances and standby equipment not presently provided for in this agreement shall continue during the term of this agreement.

B. The Fire Chief and the Assistant Fire Chief of the Warren Borough Fire Department shall not be covered under the terms of this agreement.

C. The use of the word "fire fighter" in this agreement shall mean a fireman of the Borough of Warren.

D. Thomas Haines, Frank Viola and Roger Siggins, representatives of Local Union 1835, warrant that they are authorized as such representatives to execute this agreement in behalf of Local Union 1835.

E. The use of the singular shall include the plural and the use of the plural shall include the singular and the use of any gender shall be applicable to all genders.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this agreement the day and year first above written.

Which homebuyer will you be when the price freeze is over?A happy home owner who saved $500 or more?

While the price freeze is still on, your family can have a new Ridge home this Fall
— at last Spring's prices.

And depending on which of our 39 basic designs you choose, you can save an average of $500 to well over $700.

But the time to get started is right now!
Talk things over with us today.

After all, the price freeze won't last forever.

Are you willing to go as low as $2,050.95 *
for a new VW?

We don't sell status.
Just a car. One that gets up to 27 mpg, hardly uses oil between changes, and goes a long way on a set of tires.
Of course, the fact that it's practical is no secret.
And everybody is going to know that you're saving money. But that's the price you pay for a Volkswagen.
